

Fight for Freedom of speech

Can we say

What we really want to say?

I think about this all of the time,

every single day

Is our protesting all

Of what it's even worth

Should we venture with these words

Or should we just disperse

The ones with the power

Are just so one sided

They don't accept our perspective

They just go around it

They cannot stand the thought

Of being open minded

And if that doesn't change,

These streets will stay crowded

We argue for our freedom,

And we fight for our press

Could they just commit with us

And there won't be anymore stress

We just want what we were promised

Which was freedom not this mess

We deserve our freedom,

Not to be oppressed
