1.4 Members of the Commission shall be reimbursed for their actual direct expenses incurred in travel when authorized by the Board of Governors or the President.

1.5 Support staff as may be required shall be employed by the Executive Director of the Oklahoma Bar Association in the same manner and according to the same procedure as other employees of the Oklahoma Bar Association within the funds available in the budget approved by the Supreme Court.

1.6 As used herein "MCLEC" and the "Commission" shall mean the Mandatory Continuing Legal Education Commission. "CLE" shall mean Continuing Legal Education. "MCLE" shall mean Mandatory Continuing Legal Education. "Rules" referred to shall mean and are the Rules of the Supreme Court of the State of Oklahoma for Mandatory Continuing Legal Education.

Regulation 2.

2.1 Nonresident attorneys from other jurisdictions who are temporarily admitted to practice for a case or proceeding shall not be subject to the rules or regulations governing MCLE.

2.2 An attorney who is exempt from the MCLE requirement under Rule 2 shall endorse and claim the exemption on the annual report required by Rule 5 of said rules.

Regulation 3.

3.1 Attorneys who have a permanent physical disability which makes attendance of CLE programs inordinately difficult may file a request for a permanent substitute program in lieu of attendance and shall therein set out continuing legal education plans tailored to their specific interest and physical ability. The Commission shall review and approve or disapprove such plans on an individual basis and without delay. Rejection of any requested substitute for attendance will be reviewed by the Board of Governors of the Oklahoma Bar Association prior to any sanction being imposed.

3.2 Other requests for substituted compliance, partial waivers, or other exemptions for hardship or extenuating circumstances may be granted by the Commission upon written application of the attorney and may likewise be reviewed by the Board of Governors of the Oklahoma Bar Association. Other substitute forms of compliance may be granted for members with permanent or temporary physical disabilities (based upon a written confirmation from his or her treating physician) which makes attendance at regular approved CLE programs difficult or impossible.

3.3 Credit may be earned through teaching in an approved continuing legal education program, or for a presentation substantially complying with the standards of Regulation 4 in a program which is presented to paralegals, legal assistants, and/or law clerks. Presentations accompanied by thorough, high quality, readable, and carefully prepared written materials will qualify for CLE credit on the basis of six (6) hours of credit for each hour of presentation.

3.4 Credit may also be earned through teaching a course in an ABA accredited law school or a course in a paralegal or legal assistant program accredited by the ABA. The Commission will award six (6) hours of CLE credit for each semester hour of academic credit awarded by the academic institution for the course.

3.5 Credit may also be earned through auditing of or regular enrollment in a college of law course at an ABA or AALS approved law school. The MCLE credit allowed shall equal a sum equal to three (3) times the number of credit hours granted by the college of law for the completion of the course.

3.6 Instructional Hour. Each attorney must complete 12 instructional hours of CLE per year, with no credit for meal breaks or business meetings. An instructional hour must contain at least 50 minutes of instruction.

Legal Ethics and Professionalism CLE. Effective January 1, 2021, of the 12 required instructional hours of CLE each year, at least two hours must be for programming on Legal Ethics and Professionalism, legal malpractice prevention and/or mental health and substance use disorders.

PROGRAM GUIDELINES FOR LEGAL ETHICS AND PROFESSIONALISM CLE.

Legal Ethics and Professionalism CLE programs will address the Oklahoma Rules of Professional Conduct and tenets of the legal profession by which a lawyer demonstrates civility, honesty, integrity, fairness, competence, ethical conduct, public service, and respect for the Rule of Law, the courts, clients, other lawyers, witnesses and unrepresented parties. Legal Ethics and Professionalism CLE may also address legal malpractice prevention and mental health and substance use disorders.

Legal Malpractice Prevention programs provide training and education designed to prevent attorney malpractice. These programs focus on developing systems, processes and habits that reduce or eliminate attorney errors. The programs may cover issues like ensuring timely filings within statutory limits, meeting court deadlines, properly protecting digital client information, appropriate client communications, avoiding and resolving conflicts of interest, proper handling of client trust accounts and proper ways to terminate or withdraw from client representation.

Mental Health and Substance Use Disorders programs will address issues such as attorney wellness and the prevention, detection and/or treatment of mental health disorders and/or substance use disorders which can affect a lawyer's ability to provide competent and ethical legal services.

Programs addressing the ethical tenets of other disciplines and not specifically pertaining to legal ethics are not eligible for Legal Ethics and Professionalism CLE credit but may meet the requirements for general CLE credit.

3.7 Hours of credit in excess of the minimum annual requirement may be carried forward for credit only in the succeeding calendar year. Such hours must, however, be reported in the annual report of compliance for the year in which they were completed and in the year for which they are being claimed and must be designated as hours being carried forward.

Regulation 4.

4.1.1 The following standards will govern the approval of continuing legal education programs by the Commission.

4.1.2 The program must have significant intellectual or practical content and its primary objective must be to increase the participant's professional competence as an attorney.

4.1.3 The program must deal primarily with matters related to the practice of law, professional responsibility, legal ethics, professionalism, mental health or substance use disorders related to attorneys. Programs that address law practice management and technology, as well as programs that cross academic lines, may be considered for approval.

4.1.4 The program must be offered by a sponsor having substantial, recent, experience in offering continuing legal education or demonstrated ability to organize and present effectively continuing legal education. Demonstrated ability arises partly from the extent to which individuals with legal training or educational experience are involved in the planning, instruction and supervision of the program.

If you find in favor of Plaintiff, [name], on the [specify] counterclaim, then mark the Verdict Form for the [Specify] Counterclaim for Plaintiff, [name], and against Defendant, [name].

Inference from Spoliation of Evidence

[Name of Party] had a duty to preserve [Specify Evidence] in this case and [Name of Party] [destroyed/hid/failed to preserve] the evidence. You may therefore conclude that the evidence would have been unfavorable to [Name of Party].

Notes on Use

This Instruction may be used if the court has imposed a sanction for spoliation of evidence. In order to give this Instruction, the trial court must first find that there was a duty to preserve the evidence in issue and that a party negligently or willfully destroyed, withheld, or failed to preserve the evidence. See Am. Honda Motor Co. v. Thygesen, 2018 OK 14, ¶¶ 3–4, 416 P.3d 1059, 1060 (sanctions for spoliation were not authorized where there was no duty to preserve the evidence); Barnett v. Simmons, 2008 OK 100, ¶ 27, 197 P.3d 12, 21 (trial court must determine whether party violated a duty to preserve evidence before imposing sanctions). This Instruction should be modified appropriately if the evidence was materially altered, instead of destroyed or withheld.

Committee Comments

Spoliation of evidence may result in the imposition of sanctions as well as an adverse inference at trial. See Barnett v. Simmons, 2008 OK 100, ¶ 19, 197 P.3d 12, 19 ("This Court has also held that severe sanctions may be imposed for reasonably foreseeable destruction of evidence, even when there is no discovery order in place."); Harrill v. Penn, 1927 OK 492, ¶ 8, 273 P. 235, 237 ("The willful destruction, suppression, alteration or fabrication of documentary evidence properly gives rise to the presumption that the documents, if produced, would be injurious to the one who has thus hindered the investigation of the facts."). An adverse inference instruction may appropriately be given because a reasonable inference may be drawn from spoliation of evidence that the evidence was unfavorable to the person who caused the spoliation, if the spoliation was willful. Alternatively, an adverse inference instruction may be imposed as a sanction. Except in extraordinary circumstances, sanctions may not be imposed for the loss of electronically stored information on account of the routine, good-faith operation of an electronic information system. 12 O.S. Supp. 2017 § 3237(G); Am. Honda Motor Co. v. Thygesen, 2018 OK 14, ¶ 2, 416 P.3d 1059, 1060.

Instruction No. 6.7
Scope of [Agency/Employment]

An [agent/employee] is acting within the scope of [his/her] [agency/employment] if [he/she] is engaged in ~~the~~ work which has been assigned to [him/her] by [his/her] [principal/employer], or is doing that which is proper, usual and necessary to accomplish the work assigned to [him/her] by [his/her] [principal/employer], or is doing that which is customary within the particular trade or business in which the [agent/employee] is engaged. An [agent/employee] is acting within the scope of [agency/employment] if the [agent/employee] acted with a view to further the [principal's/employer's] business, or from some impulse or emotion which naturally grew out of or was related to an attempt to perform the [principal's/employer's] business, regardless of whether the [agent/employee] acted mistakenly or unwisely.]

Notes on Use

This instruction is to be used in cases in which the plaintiff is seeking to hold the defendant liable as an employer under the doctrine of respondeat superior. The last sentence should be included if there is evidence that the employee acted mistakenly or ill advisedly and was otherwise attempting to perform the employer's business. If there is evidence that the employee deviated from the employer's business for the employee's own purposes, the trial court should give Instruction No. 6.12 in addition to this instruction.

Comments

The Oklahoma Supreme Court summarized the theory of respondeat superior in Nail v. City of Henryetta, 1996 OK 12, ¶ 11, 911 P.2d 914, 917, as follows: "Under the theory of respondeat superior, one acts within the scope of employment if engaged in work assigned, or if doing that which is proper, necessary and usual to accomplish the work assigned, or doing that which is customary within the particular trade or business." ~~*Roring v. Scope of Authority — Defined

An agent is acting within the scope of ~~[his/her]~~ authority if ~~[he/she]~~ the agent is engaged in the transaction of business that has been assigned ~~to [him/her]~~ by ~~[his/her]~~ the principal, or if ~~[he/she]~~ the agent is doing anything that may reasonably be said to have been contemplated as a part of ~~[his/her]~~ the agent's duties ~~agency.~~ It is not necessary that the principal expressly authorized an agent's act or failure to act ~~must have been expressly authorized by the principa~~l.

Comments

The scope and extent of the agent's authority are to be determined from all of the facts and circumstances in evidence. *Williams v. Incidental or Implied Authority — Defined

Instruction No. 6.11
Apparent Authority ~~[Agency by Estoppel]~~ — Definition and Effect

~~When a principal by~~ ~~[his/her/its]~~ If either the words or conduct of [Name of Principal] has caused ~~another~~ [Name of Plaintiff] reasonably to believe that ~~the principal~~ [Name of Principal] ~~has had~~ authorized ~~[his/her/its]~~ ~~agent~~ [Name of Agent] to take certain action on ~~the principal's~~ behalf of [Name of Principal], though in fact ~~the principal~~ [Name of Principal] may not have actually done so, ~~such~~ the words or conduct ~~constitute~~ of [Name of Principal] constituted apparent authority, and as to [Name of Plaintiff] ~~the other person are~~ were the same as if ~~the principal~~ [Name of Principal] had authorized ~~such~~ [Name of Agent] to take the action. The apparent authority of [Name of Agent] may not be based solely on the words or conduct of [Name of Agent]. In addition, [Name of Plaintiff] must have changed position to [his/her] detriment in reliance on the apparent authority of [Name of Agent].

Notes on Use

This instruction should not be used when the principal is undisclosed, since by the definition of apparent authority, it cannot exist when the principal is undisclosed. Such may not be true when the principal is partially disclosed, as in the case of a partnership where the third person is dealing with the partnership and knows some of its members but not all of them.

The rule of apparent authority should not be confused with the rules governing implied or incidental authority. See Instructions 6.9 and 6.10.

The trial court should substitute the name of a defendant or another person for [Name of Plaintiff] in this Instruction in appropriate circumstances.

Comments

The Oklahoma Supreme Court set out the requirements for apparent authority in Sparks Brothers Drilling Co. v. Texas Moran Exploration Co., 1991 OK 129, ¶ 17, 829 P.2d 951, 954, as follows:

> "Apparent authority" of an agent is such authority as the principal knowingly permits the agent to assume or which he holds the agent out as possessing. Three elements must exist before a third party can hold a principal liable for the acts of another on an apparent-agency principal: (a) conduct of the principal [which would reasonably lead the third party to believe that the agent was authorized to act on behalf of the principal], (b) reliance thereon by [the] third person, and (c) change of position by the third party to his detriment. Knowledge of Agent Imputable to Principal

Knowledge, or notice possessed by an agent while acting within the scope of ~~[his/her]~~ the agent's authority, is the knowledge of, or notice to, ~~[his/her]~~ the principal.

Comments

In *Bailey v. Instruction No. 7.5

Instruction No. 7.5
Principal and Agent or Employer and Employee — Both Parties Sued — Liability When Issue as to Relationship or Scope of Authority or Employment

If you find that [name of agent or employee] [was the agent/employee of [name of principal or employer]] [and] [was acting within the scope of [his/her] authority/employment] at the time of the occurrence, and if you find [name of agent or employee] is liable, then both are liable. If you find that [name of agent or employee] is not liable, then neither is liable.

If you find [name of agent or employee] is liable, but [was not an agent/employee of [name of principal or employer]] [or] [was not acting within the scope of [his/her] authority as an agent/employee of [name of principal or employer]] at the time of the occurrence, then [name of principal or employer] is not liable.

Notes on Use

Use whichever bracketed clauses are appropriate, depending on whether either or both, the relationship or the scope of authority or employment, has been denied.

When the scope of employment or scope of authority is in dispute, either Instruction 6.7 or 6.8, whichever is appropriate, should be given with this instruction.

While this instruction is primarily for use in tort cases, it may also be used in contract cases when, under the substantive law of agency, both the principal and the agent would be bound by the contract.

This instruction should not be used when there is an independent basis of liability claimed against the principal apart from the agency, as for example, when it is alleged the principal has been personally negligent.

Instruction No. 9.51

Instruction No. 9.51
Willful and Wanton Conduct – Definition

~~Willful and wanton conduct means a course of action showing an actual or deliberate intention to injure or, if not intentional, shows an utter indifference to or conscious disregard for the safety of others~~ The conduct of [Defendant] was willful and wanton if [Defendant] was either aware, or did not care, that there was a substantial and unnecessary risk that the conduct would cause serious injury to others. In order for the conduct to be willful and wanton, it must have been unreasonable under the circumstances, and also there must have been a high probability that the conduct would cause serious harm to another person.

Comments

This definition is substantially the same as the definition of "willful and wanton" in Instruction No. 9.17, supra, and of "reckless disregard of another's rights" in Instruction 5.6, supra. The Oklahoma Supreme Court quoted the definition of "willful and wanton" from Instruction No. 9.17 with approval in Parret v. UNICCO Service Co., 2005 OK 54, ¶ 14, 127 P.3d 572, 576. The Supreme Court held in Graham v. Keuchel, 1993 OK 6, ¶ 49, 847 P.2d 342, 362, as follows:

> The intent in willful and wanton misconduct is not an intent to cause the injury; it is an intent to do an act – or the failure to do an act – in reckless disregard of the consequences and under such circumstances that a reasonable man would know, or have reason to know, that such conduct would be likely to result in substantial harm to another. (Emphasis in original)

Instruction No. 11.10

Instruction No. 11.10
Duty to Invitee to Maintain Premises – Generally

It is the duty of the [owner/occupant] to use ordinary care to keep [his/her/its] premises in a reasonably safe condition for the use of [his/her/its] invitees. It is the duty of the [owner/occupant] either to remove or warn the invitee of any hidden danger on the premises that the [owner/occupant] either actually knows about, or that [he/she/it] should know about in the exercise of reasonable care, or that was created by [him/her/it] [or any of [his/her/its] employees who were acting within the scope of their employment]. This duty extends to all portions of the premises to which an invitee may reasonably be expected to go.

Notes on Use

This instruction should generally be used with Instruction Nos. 11.11 and 11.12, dealing with the definition of a hidden danger and the defense that a danger is open and obvious, and with Instruction Nos. 9.1, 9.2, and 9.6, dealing with negligence and causation.

The trial court is encouraged to modify this generally worded instruction to fit the facts of the particular case. For example, if the case arose out of a slip and fall on a banana peel in a grocery store, the instruction might read:

> A grocery store has a duty to keep its floor reasonably safe for its customers. A grocery store has a duty to either remove or warn its customers of any dangerous objects on the floor, such as banana peels, that store employees actually knew about, or should have known about in the exercise of reasonable care, that were put on the floor by a store employee. This duty covers all parts of the store where customers may reasonably be expected to go.

Some cases may involve additional issues, such as whether the invitee went outside the area of his invitation or remained on the premises beyond the time of his invitation, and the general instruction will need to be modified for these cases. In addition, the general instruction may need to be modified for a case where a ~~hidden~~ danger resulted from an intervening action by another person that the defendant should have reasonably anticipated. An example is Lingerfelt v. Winn-Dixie Tex., Inc., 1982 OK 44, 645 P.2d 485, where the Oklahoma Supreme Court held that a grocery store could be found liable to a customer on account of a hidden danger created by other customers that the grocery store should have reasonably anticipated. The Supreme Court reversed a defense verdict and ordered a new trial on account of the denial of a requested jury instruction on a dangerous condition created by the means the grocery store used to display its products. See also Cobb v. Skaggs Cos., Inc., 1982 OK CIV APP 46, ¶ 12, 661 P.2d 73, 76 ("Merchandising methods that involve unassisted customer selection create problems with dropped or spilled merchandise. The courts have come to recognize that self-service marketing methods necessarily create the dangerous condition.").

In a case where there is a duty for open and obvious dangers under Wood v. Mercedes-Benz of Okla. City, 2014 OK 68, ¶ 9, 336 P.3d 457, 460, the word "hidden" in the second sentence of the Instruction should be deleted.

Comments

The following statement of a property owner's duty to invitees is from Williams v. Safeway Stores, Inc., 1973 OK 119, ¶ 3, 515 P.2d 223, 225:

> A storekeeper owes customers the duty to exercise ordinary care to keep aisles and other parts of the premises ordinarily used by customers in transacting business in a reasonably safe condition, and to warn customers of dangerous conditions upon the premises which are known, or which should reasonably be known to the storekeeper, but not to customers. [Citations omitted.]. Knowledge of the dangerous condition will be imputed to the storekeeper if he knew of the dangerous condition, or if it existed for such time it was his duty to know of it, or if the condition was created by him, or by his employees acting within the scope of the employment. [Citations omitted.].

Instruction No. 11.12

Instruction No. 11.12
Open and Obvious Danger

The [owner/occupant] has no duty to protect invitees [licensees] from or warn them of any dangerous condition that is open and obvious, ~~as such a~~ because an open and obvious danger is ordinarily readily observable by invitees [licensees].

Notes on Use

Even if a dangerous condition is open and obvious, a ~~A~~ property owner may be liable for an injury to an invitee ~~caused by a dangerous condition that the invitee was aware of,~~ if the property owner had reason to know that the dangerous condition would cause harm to the invitee despite the invi-tee's knowledge, the property owner caused or contributed to the dangerous condition, and the injured party was required to be on the premises. Wood v. Mercedes–Benz of Okla. City, 2014 OK 68, ¶ 9, 336 P.3d 457, 460. The general instruction above should ~~be modified accordingly~~ not be given where ~~a plaintiff claims~~ the court determines that ~~the property owner had a duty to protect him against a known danger~~ Wood applies.

Comments

This instruction is based on Henryetta Construction Co. v. Harris, 1965 OK 88, ¶ 7, 408 P.2d 522, 525-26 ~~(Okla. 1965)~~; and Beatty v. Dixon, 1965 OK 169, ¶ 13, 408 P.2d 339, 343-44 ~~(Okla. 1965)~~. A property owner's responsibility to protect invitees in some circumstances from known dangers is discussed in Restatement (Second) of Torts § 343A comment f (1965) and Restatement (Third) of Torts: Physical and Emotional Harm § 51 comment k. For example, the Oklahoma Supreme Court held in Wood v. Mercedes–Benz of Okla. City, 2014 OK 68, ¶ 9, 336 P.3d 457, 460, that a property owner had a duty to protect an invitee from hazardous conditions even though the invitee was aware of them because it was foreseeable that the invitee would be harmed. See also Martinez v. Angel Expl., LLC, 798 F.3d 968, 977 (10th Cir. 2016) ("A landowner's duty [under Oklahoma law] to keep the premises in a reasonably safe condition for invitees extends to both latent dangers and at least some obvious dangers with foreseeable harms to a class of visitors required to be on the premises."); Jack Healey Linen Serv. Co. v. Travis, 1967 OK 213, ¶ 9, 434 P.2d 924, 927 ~~(Okla. 1967)~~ ("Plaintiff's familiarity with the general physical condition which may be responsible for her injury does not of itself operate to transform the offending defect into an apparent and obvious hazard.").

EMOTIONAL DISTRESS

List of Contents

Instruction No. 20.1

ELEMENTS OF LIABILITY – INTENTIONAL INFLICTION OF EMOTIONAL DISTRESS

For [Plaintiff] to recover from [Defendant] on [his/her] claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress, [he/she] must prove by the greater weight of the evidence that:

1. [Defendant's] actions in the setting in which they occurred were so extreme and outrageous as to go beyond all possible bounds of decency and would be considered atrocious and utterly intolerable in a civilized society; and

2. [Defendant] intentionally or recklessly caused severe emotional distress to [Plaintiff] beyond that which a reasonable person could be expected to endure.

Notes on Use

The court should also give Instructions 20.2 through 20.4, and ordinarily also an Instruction (No. 5.5) on punitive damages.

~~The Oklahoma Supreme Court decided in Kraszewski v. Baptist Ctr., 1996 OK 141, 916 P.2d 241, that a claim for intentional infliction of emotional distress could arise from a plaintiff's witnessing an accident, if 1) the plaintiff was directly physically involved in the accident, 2) the plaintiff was damaged from viewing the injury, rather than from learning of it later, and 3) the plaintiff had a familial or other close relationship with the person whose injury gave rise to the plaintiff's mental anguish. 1996 OK 141, ¶ 18, 916 P.2d at 250. If any of these matters are in controversy and need to be presented to the jury, the trial judge should draft an appropriate instruction.~~

Comments

The Oklahoma Supreme Court first recognized the tort of intentional infliction of emotional distress in Breeden v. League Servs. Corp., 1978 OK 27, ¶ 7, 575 P.2d 1374, 1376. In the Breeden case, the Supreme Court adopted the standards in Restatement (Second) of Torts § 46 (1965), and these are incorporated into this instruction. A previous version of Instruction No. 20.1, which required only that the defendant's actions were unreasonable, was held to be incorrect in Floyd v. Dodson, 1984 OK CIV APP 57, ¶¶ 8-12, 692 P.2d 77, 79-80.

Instruction No. 20.1A

ELEMENTS OF LIABILITY – NEGLIGENT INFLICTION OF EMOTIONAL DISTRESS

For [Plaintiff] to recover from [Defendant] on [his/her] claim for negligent infliction of emotional distress from witnessing an accident, [he/she] must prove by the greater weight of the evidence that:

1. [Defendant] was liable for an injury to [Third Party];

2. [Plaintiff] was directly physically involved in the accident;

3. [Plaintiff] was injured from actually viewing the injury to [Third Party], rather than from learning of it later, and

4. [Plaintiff] had a [familial]/[close personal relationship] with [Third Party].

Comments

This Instruction is based on Ridings v. Maze, 2018 OK 18, ¶¶ 6–7, 414 P.3d 835, 837-838, and Kraszewski v. Baptist Medical Center of Oklahoma, Inc., 1996 OK 141, ¶ 18, 916 P.2d 241, 250. While the Oklahoma Supreme Court identified the cause of action as intentional infliction of emotional distress in Kraszewski, the Supreme Court in Ridings characterized it as in effect the tort of negligence, rather than an independent tort. 2018 OK 18, ¶ 6, 414 P.3d at 837.

3. [Defendant] interfered with the contract [or induced the Third Party to breach the contract, or made it impossible for the contract to be performed];

6. [Plaintiff] suffered damages as a direct result of [Defendant]'s actions.

Notes on Use

This Instruction should be used ~~with the following Instructions in a case~~ where a plaintiff seeks recovery for intentional interference with a contract. ~~It may be adapted for a claim for interference with a business relationship by substituting "business relationship" for "contract" throughout. See Waggoner v. Town & Country Mobile Homes, Inc., 808 P.2d 649, 654 (Okla. 1990).~~ For a definition of intent, see Instruction No. 24.4, infra. For an enumeration of factors to consider for improper or unfair means, see Instruction 24.3, infra. Instruction No. 24.2, infra, should be used where a plaintiff seeks recovery for intentional interference with a prospective business relationship that has not been reduced to a contract.

Comments

The Oklahoma Supreme Court set out the elements of a claim for malicious interference with contract or business relations in Mac Adjustment, Inc. v. Property Loss Research Bureau, 1979 OK 41, ¶ 5, 595 P.2d 427, 428 ~~(Okla. 1979)~~, as follows:

> In order to recover in [an action for malicious interference with contract or business relations], a plaintiff must show:
> 1. That he or she had a business or contractual right that was interfered with.
> 2. That the interference was malicious and wrongful, and that such interference was neither justified, privileged nor excusable.
> 3. That damage was proximately sustained as a result of the complained-of interference.

See also Del State Bank v. Salmon, 1976 OK 42, n.1, 548 P.2d 1024, 1026 n.1 ~~(Okla. 1976)~~ (setting out instructions that had been approved by both parties in a case involving ~~on~~ intentional interference with an employment contract ~~that both parties had approved~~). ~~For a reference to the related tort of interference with a prospective business advantage, see Overbeck v. Quaker Life Ins. Co., 757 P.2d 846, 847-48 (Okla. Ct. App. 1984).~~

The Restatement (Second) of Torts 2d recognizes two types of interference with contractual relations. Section 766 involves interference with the performance of contract by causing a party to the contract other than the plaintiff not to perform. Section 766A involves interference of a contract by preventing the plaintiff's own performance of the contract or by making the plaintiff's performance more expensive or burdensome. ~~No Oklahoma court has ruled on the viability of a claim under § 766A, however, the Tenth Circuit has held that a claim under § 766A is viable in Oklahoma. John A. Henry & Co., Ltd. v. T.G. & Y. Stores Co., 941 F.2d 1068 (10th Cir. 1991). Other jurisdictions have rejected claims under § 766A. See, e.g., Price v. Sorrell, 784 P.2d 614 (Wyo. 1989).~~ Both types of interference with contract are recognized in Oklahoma. Wilspec Techs., Inc. v. DunAn Holding Grp. Co., 2009 OK 12, ¶ 11, 204 P.3d 69, 73. A claim for interference with a contract requires interference with a contract between the plaintiff and a third party, as opposed to breach of a contract between the plaintiff and the defendant. Voiles v. Santa Fe Minerals, Inc., 1996 OK 13, ¶ 18, 911 P.2d 1205, 1209; Navistar Int'l Transp. Corp. v. Vernon Klein Truck & Equip., 1994 OK CIV APP 168, ¶ 6, 919 P.2d 443, 446.

~~A Subcommittee on Jury Instructions of the Business Torts Litigation Committee of the Section of Litigation of the American Bar Association has prepared an extensive set of Model Jury Instructions for Business Tort Litigation. The trial court may consider adapting the following Instruction 1.05[2] for use in a case where there is an issue concerning whether the defendant's interference with contract was improper:~~

> ~~The determination of whether the defendant's conduct was or was not improper depends upon your consideration of all the facts and circumstances of the case, and a balancing of the following factors:~~
> ~~1. The nature of the defendant's conduct;~~
> ~~2. The defendant's motive;~~
> ~~3. The interests of the plaintiff with which the defendant's conduct interfered;~~
> ~~4. The interests sought to be advanced by the defendant;~~
> ~~5. The social interests in protecting the freedom of action of the defendant and the contractual interests of the plaintiff;~~
> ~~6. The proximity or remoteness of the defendant's conduct to the interference claimed by the plaintiff; and~~
> ~~7. The relationship among the plaintiff, _____ [name of breaching party], and the defendant.~~

Instruction No. 24.2

~~Intent – Definition~~
Interference with Prospective Economic Advantage — Elements

~~[Defendant]'s~~ ~~actions were intentional if~~ [he/she/it] ~~either desired to interfere with~~ ~~[Plaintiff]'s~~ ~~contract with~~ [Third Party], ~~or [he/she/it] was substantially certain that his actions would interfere with the contract.~~

[Plaintiff] claims that [he/she/it] had a [prospective] business relationship with [Third Party]. [Plaintiff] also claims that [Defendant] intentionally and wrongfully interfered with this [prospective] business relationship, and that [he/she/it] suffered damages as a direct result. In order to win on the claim of intentional interference with a [prospective] business relationship, [Plaintiff] must show by the weight of the evidence that:

1. [Plaintiff] had a [prospective] business relationship with [Third Party];
2. [Defendant] knew [or under the circumstances reasonably should have known] about the [prospective] business relationship;
3. [Defendant] interfered with the [prospective] business relationship by:

   causing [Third Party] not to [enter into]/[continue] the [prospective] business relationship; preventing [Plaintiff] from [entering into]/[continuing] the [prospective] business relationship.

   OR

4. [Defendant]'s conduct was intentional;
5. [Defendant] used improper or unfair means; and
6. [Plaintiff] suffered damages as a direct result of [Defendant]'s actions.

Notes on Use

This Instruction should be used in a case where a plaintiff seeks recovery for intentional interference with a business relationship or prospective business relationship that has not been reduced to a contract. For an enumeration of factors to consider for improper or unfair means, see Instruction No. 24.3, infra. For a definition of intent, see Instruction No. 24.4, infra.

Comments

~~The Oklahoma Supreme Court stated in Del State Bank v. Salmon, 548 P.2d 1024, 1026 (Okla. 1976): "Intentional interference may be malice in the law without personal hatred, ill will, or spite."~~ Oklahoma courts have recognized claims for intentional interference with a prospective contractual relation under Restatement (Second) of Torts § 766B. Wilspec Techs., Inc. v. DunAn Holding Grp. Co., 2009 OK 12, ¶ 7, 204 P.3d 69, 71. Section 766B provides:

One who intentionally and improperly interferes with another's prospective contractual relation (except a contract to marry) is subject to liability to the other for the pecuniary harm resulting from loss of the benefits of the relation, whether the interference consists of

(a) inducing or otherwise causing a third person not to enter into or continue the prospective relation or

(b) preventing the other from acquiring or continuing the prospective relation.

Interference with Contract — ~~Damages~~ Improper or Unfair Means

~~If you decide for [Plaintiff], you must then fix the amount of [his/her/its] damages. This is the amount of money that will reasonably and fairly compensate [him/her/its] for the losses [he/she/it] has sustained from the breach of the contract.~~

Whether the defendant's conduct was improper or unfair depends upon your consideration of all the facts and circumstances of the case, and a balancing of the following factors:

1. The nature of the defendant's conduct;
2. The defendant's motive;
3. The interests of the plaintiff with which the defendant's conduct interfered;
4. The interests sought to be advanced by the defendant;
5. The social interests in protecting the freedom of action of the defendant and the contractual interests of the plaintiff;
6. The proximity or remoteness of the defendant's conduct to the interference claimed by the plaintiff; and
7. The relationship among the plaintiff, _____ [name of breaching party], and the defendant.

~~Notes on Use~~ Comments

~~In appropriate cases the court should also give Instruction No. 5.5 for punitive damages.~~ This Instruction is based on language that the Oklahoma Supreme Court quoted with approval in Wilspec Technologies, Inc. v. DunAn Holding Group Co., 2009 OK 12, n.6, 204 P.3d 69, 74 n.6.

INTERFERENCE WITH CONTRACT — DAMAGES

If you decide for [Plaintiff], you must then fix the amount of [his/her/its] damages. This is the amount of money that will reasonably and fairly compensate [him/her/it] for the losses [he/she/it] has sustained from the breach of the contract.

Notes on Use

In appropriate cases the court should also give Instruction No. 5.5 for punitive damages.

Instruction No. 25.2

Instruction No. 25.2
CONDEMNATION — JUST COMPENSATION — FULL TAKING

The term "just compensation" means the payment to [Owner] for the taking of [his/her/its] property by [Condemnor] of an amount of money that will make [Owner] whole. In this case this is the fair market value of the property on _____, the date of the taking, [plus reasonable and necessary moving expenses]. The property includes the land and any buildings or other things that are attached to the land.

Notes on Use

This Instruction should be used only when all of a particular property is condemned so that there are no problems involving the effect of the taking on the valuation of any remaining property. It should be given along with Instruction No. 25.5, "Fair Market Value-Definition," and other appropriate Instructions. The bracketed language in the second sentence that refers to moving expenses should be included if the plaintiff is seeking moving expenses. See State ex rel. Dep't. of Transp. v. Little, 2004 OK 74, ¶¶ 18, 25, 100 P.3d 707, 717, 720.

Comments

The 1990 amendment to Okla. Const. Art. 2, § 24 provides in pertinent part: "Just compensation shall mean the value of the property taken . . . ." Oklahoma cases decided prior to this amendment used fair market value as the standard for just compensation. E.g., Grand Hydro v. Grand River Dam Auth., 1943 OK 158, ¶ 8, 139 P.2d 798, 800~~, 192 Okla. 693, 694~~ ("The measure of compensation in [a condemnation proceeding] is the fair market or cash value of the land condemned.").

2020 OK 4

STATE OF OKLAHOMA ex rel., OKLAHOMA BAR ASSOCIATION, Complainant, v. LAURIE JEAN MILLER, Respondent.

SCBD 6687. January 14, 2020

ORIGINAL PROCEEDING FOR ATTORNEY DISCIPLINE

¶0 The Complainant, Oklahoma Bar Association, charged the Respondent, Laurie Jean Miller, with three counts of professional misconduct that included failure to competently represent her clients, failure to be diligent in her representation of her clients and failure to communicate effectively with her clients. In addition, the Complainant charged the Respondent with mishandling of client funds, violating rules of professional conduct and the commission of an act contrary to prescribed standards of conduct. Having found clear and convincing evidence to support all three counts, the Trial Panel recommended the Respondent be suspended for eighteen months. We hold there is clear and convincing evidence that the totality of the Respondent's conduct warrants disbarment. The Respondent is ordered to pay the costs as herein provided within ninety days after this opinion becomes final.

RESPONDENT DISBARRED. COSTS CHARGED TO RESPONDENT.

Peter Haddock, Assistant General Counsel, Oklahoma Bar Association, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma, for Complainant.

Travis A. Pickens, Edinger, Leonard & Blakley, PLLC, Oklahoma City, Oklahoma for Respondent.

COMBS, J.:

¶1 The Complainant, State of Oklahoma ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Association (Complainant), began proceedings pursuant to Rule 6, Rules Governing Disciplinary Proceedings (RGDP) 5 O.S. 2011, ch. 1, app. 1-A alleging three counts of professional misconduct against the Respondent, Laurie Jean Miller (Respondent). The Respondent is an active member of the Oklahoma Bar Association and is currently in good standing with the Association. For most of her career she has been a sole practitioner but has also shared offices with other attorneys. She left private practice in 2017 and took a position with an insurance company where she is currently employed.[1] The Complainant's allegations arise from the Respondents conduct towards several of her clients she had while in private practice. The matters involved are related to three separate governmental tort claims actions. The Complainant alleges the Respondent's actions are in violation of the Oklahoma Rules of Professional Conduct (ORPC), 5 O.S. 2011, ch. 1, app. 3-A, and the RGDP and are cause for professional discipline.

I. Procedural History

¶2 Two of the Respondent's former clients filed grievances against her with the Complainant. Claudia Murcia filed her grievance on December 23, 2016 (Murcia grievance). Brian Sanders filed his grievance on November 16, 2017 (Sanders grievance). After receiving responses from the Respondent in both grievances, the Complainant opened a formal investigation into each one. The Complainant met with the Respondent several times to discuss the grievances. Thereafter, it filed its formal Complaint against the Respondent on September 17, 2018. The Respondent initially represented herself and entered an appearance and filed her Answer. Thereafter she hired an attorney to represent her. During the course of investigating the Sanders grievance the Complainant discovered information concerning another similar case. The Complainant then opened a grievance against the Respondent in this new matter concerning Respondent's former clients Cornel and Sharon Solis (Solis grievance). It also filed a Supplemental Complaint on December 21, 2018, containing these new allegations of misconduct. Respondent's attorney answered the Supplemental Complaint.

¶3 The Professional Responsibility Tribunal (PRT) held a hearing concerning these grievances pursuant to Rule 6, RGDP which occurred on two separate days; March 14, 2019 and March 25, 2019. In closing argument, the Complainant recommended the Respondent be suspended from the practice of law for one year. On June 13, 2019, the Trial Panel filed its report wherein it found the allegations of the Complaint and Supplemental Complaint had been established by clear and convincing evidence. Even after considering all the mitigating factors the Trial Panel unanimously recommended a longer suspension of eighteen months. This matter was assigned to this office on August 19, 2019.

II. Standard of Review

¶4 In Bar disciplinary proceedings, this Court possesses exclusive original jurisdiction. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Holden, 1995 OK 25, ¶ 10, 895 P.2d 707. Our review of the evidence is de novo in determining if the Bar proved its allegations of misconduct by clear and convincing evidence. Rule 6.12(c), RGDP; State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Bolusky, 2001 OK 26, ¶ 7, 23 P.3d 268. Clear and convincing evidence is that measure or degree of proof which produces in the mind of the trier of fact a firm belief or conviction as to the truth of the allegations sought to be established. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Green, 1997 OK 39, ¶5, 936 P.2d 947. Our goals in disciplinary proceedings are to protect the interests of the public and to preserve the integrity of the courts and the legal profession, not to punish the offending lawyers. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Kinsey, 2009 OK 31, ¶15, 212 P.3d 1186. Discipline is administered to preserve the public confidence in the bar and to deter an attorney from similar future misconduct. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Phillips, 2002 OK 86, ¶21, 60 P.3d 1030. Whether to impose discipline is a decision that rests solely with this Court and the recommendations of the PRT are neither binding nor persuasive. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Eakin, 1995 OK 106, ¶ 8, 914 P.2d 644.

III. The Grievances

A. Count I. The Murcia Grievance

¶5 The first grievance was filed by Claudia Murcia (Murcia). Murcia is from El Salvador, and English is not her first language. The record reflects she uses a translator when communicating at all relevant times related to her grievance. In 2009, Murcia worked at a hotel in Norman, Oklahoma. In February of that year she was injured while riding a public bus to work. Her injuries required medical treatment and she incurred several medical bills. Murcia had health insurance at the time but chose not to file these tort-related claims with her insurance. She hired Michael Sherrod (Sherrod) to represent her in this personal injury matter. Sherrod filed a petition on February 11, 2011 against the State of Oklahoma ex rel. University of Oklahoma, Cleveland Area Rapid Transit, and the bus driver.[2] Since this tort claim involved a governmental entity the Oklahoma Governmental Tort Claims Act (OGTCA) applied. Sherrod, however, filed the petition within two years from the date of the accident rather than under the provisions of the OGTCA.[3] Sherrod testified he realized he had missed the statute of limitations when the opposing side filed a motion to dismiss and thereafter he immediately informed Murcia he had missed the statute of limitations.[4] Murcia hired the Respondent in January 2012 hoping she could proceed with her case. Murcia testified that Sherrod had informed her that the statute of limitations had run prior to hiring the Respondent and that she informed the Respondent of this at their first meeting.[5] The Respondent testified Murcia had not informed her that the statute of limitations had run but told her only that her attorney could not prosecute her case any longer and was ill.[6] The Respondent testified she would not have taken Murcia's case had she known the statute of limitations had run.[7]

¶6 The Respondent reviewed the petition online and determined nothing on its face seemed out of order, so she proceeded with the representation. She first filed an application for leave to make service out of time which was quickly challenged by a motion to vacate. Not long afterwards, the opposing counsel filed a motion to dismiss. The opposing counsel also sent the Respondent a letter with an attached proposed motion for sanctions which she would file if the Respondent did not dismiss the action.[8] On September 10, 2012, the Respondent dismissed the action by filing a dismissal without prejudice.[9]

¶7 Following the dismissal, the Respondent helped negotiate a settlement between Murcia and Sherrod for any malpractice Sherrod may have made in her case. The goal was to see if Sherrod could compensate Murcia for his failure to timely file her petition, and any money received from him could be used to pay Murcia's medical bills. The Respondent agreed to help Murcia with these matters. Her contract with Murcia only concerned the tort action.[10] There is no evidence of a subsequent contract after the tort action was dismissed. In her January 17, 2017 response to the grievance, the Respondent wrote "at this point [after the case was dismissed], I realized this case is going to be done pro-bono and was in fact an attempt to help a colleague to keep from obtaining a bar complaint and a lawsuit against him."[11] She later testified that even though she realized there would be no recovery, she did not tell Murcia she would represent her pro-bono on these additional matters.[12]

¶8 On or about July 25, 2014, Sherrod settled with Murcia by providing her a quit claim deed thereby transferring land he owned in Pittsburgh County, Oklahoma.[13] Murcia authorized the Respondent to sell the land on her behalf and to apply the proceeds to her outstanding medical bills.[14] Sherrod gave the Respondent's name to a potential purchaser, Mr. Stuart, who was interested in buying Sherrod's land.[15] Mr. Stuart contacted the Respondent and they negotiated a sale of the land.[16] Murcia agreed and the property was sold on March 29, 2015 for $4,600.00 in cash.[17] On the same day, Murcia signed and presented a release of all claims to Sherrod which was prepared by the Respondent.[18] Murcia's total medical bills were $12,084.95 which exceeded the amount of the proceeds from the sale. The Respondent agreed to negotiate with the providers/collection agencies to reduce the bills.[19] The largest bill was to Therapy in Motion in the amount of $5,691.50 for physical therapy.[20] TekCollect, a collection agency, was authorized to collect this bill in December 2014 and began contacting Murcia around that time.[21] Other providers had been pursuing collection efforts as well.[22] These efforts, including Therapy in Motion's efforts to collect Murcia's debt, had begun prior to the sale of the land.[23]

¶9 After the March 29, 2015 sale took place, the Respondent took the $4,600.00 cash proceeds and placed them in a safe at her law office.[24] Murcia did not ask for the money because she wanted the Respondent to negotiate and reduce her bills to the amount of the sale proceeds and use that money to pay those bills.[25] This was their agreement and she trusted the Respondent to do this.[26] The Respondent had an Interest on Lawyers Trust Account (IOLTA) at the time she placed the money in her safe.[27] She testified she was confused as to what to do with cash.[28] She was not accustomed to getting cash, and she thought she would be safekeeping the money by just placing it in her safe.[29]

¶10 Murcia continued receiving calls from collection agencies regarding these medical bills.[30] In 2016, for approximately five months she tried to get proof from the Respondent that her bills had been paid.[31] Murcia's grievance alleged that the Respondent kept "putting off sending me them [proof of payment of her medical bills]."[32] The record reflects that in December 2016 Murcia and the Respondent corresponded over several days via a series of text messages.[33] An excerpt of those messages is as follows:

Date unknown presumably early December 2016:

Murcia: Ms. Laurie sorry for bothering you it's just that I'm worried about my case. It has been more than 2 months since you told me the case was closed and I still haven't received any proof that the case was truly closed. Or is there something happening I don't know of in the case?

Respondent: It's over I just have been swamped!

Murcia: When will I receive the papers for sure? Or will I pick them up at your office?

Respondent: Next Monday.

Murcia: Okay I will be expecting them next Monday thank you. Sorry for bothering you.

Monday, December 12, 2:38 PM.

Murcia: Ms. Laurie please don't forget you were going to send me the papers today by email.

Respondent: All I have is the check that says paid in full-it's at my accountants office – she is going to send me a copy of it.

Monday, December 12, 4:25 PM.

Murcia: When will you send it to me?

Respondent: Yes as soon as I get it from her.

Murcia: Okay what is left to finish this case? I want to be done with all of this.

Respondent: It's done. The last bill to be paid was the PT bill and we settle for what was paid on the land – can't even remember the amount now.

Murcia: I just want proof that everything is paid for....

Friday, December 16, 8:41 AM and repeated again at 2:14 PM.

Murcia: Good morning. I am frustrated that I can't get concrete answers or proof of how my case is going and that is something I should be kept up to date in. If by Tuesday I haven't received anything from you I will go the OBA's.

Monday, December 19, 10:03 AM.

Murcia: Are you going to send the proofs today yes or no?

Respondent: Yes. I haven't been in the office since Thursday.

Murcia: Okay send it to me by email please.

Respondent: Ok – I will be in this afternoon.

Murcia: Ok thank you.

Monday, December 19, 4:05 PM.

Murcia: Please Ms Laurie don't forget the copies before you leave your office.

Respondent: It's a check to TekCollect on 7-22-16 – we are trying to find a copy of the check – the accountant has all my stuff. It was the amount of the check for the sale of the land – Still looking.

Murcia: Send it to me asap please.

¶11 In Murcia's May 2017 reply letter, she attaches additional text messages between her and the Respondent.[34] In those text messages Murcia asks about the other medical bills besides the one to Therapy in Motion. The Respondent unequivocally states "we already paid those." In another text message Murcia asks for "proof that all the places are paid and that the case is closed." The Respondent replied "[o]k ...I don't have any releases but I can give you copies of checks...I put paid in full on checks. Sorry I haven't sent them. I was crazy swamped before I left. I will email the checks to you." No checks were ever emailed to Murcia. The Respondent later testified she had never seen a check that said "paid in full."[35] These texts also include the Respondent telling Murcia she had filed a lawsuit against Therapy in Motion. The lawsuit was premised upon new case law that held a provider was prohibited from choosing not to file an insurance claim. No lawsuit was ever filed.

¶12 Murcia is desperately trying to receive proof that after over a year since the Respondent received the $4,600.00 her medical bills have been negotiated and paid. These text messages clearly show the Respondent is telling her that not only has the PT bill been paid, which is the bill from Therapy in Motion and being collected by TekCollect, but it was the last one and "[i]t's done." She is clearly indicating to her client that all her medical bills have been paid. She even tells Murcia on a specific date,

July 22, 2016, she paid the amount owed to TekCollect by check. The Respondent's later excuse for not sending her a copy of the check is that it is with her accountant. This is so even though she had previously indicated to Murcia that she had multiple checks and was going to email them to her. On December 23, 2016, without receiving any proof that her bills had been paid, Murcia filed a grievance with the Complainant.[36]

¶13 On January 17, 2017, the Respondent replied to the grievance.[37] In approximately one month from the date of these last text messages, the Respondent's story has changed from what she told Murcia. She tells the Complainant that she had to pay the Therapy in Motion bill with a credit card on her operating account and therefore she did not have a receipt. This assertion contradicts her story to Murcia that she paid it with a check on July 22, 2016. She further claims her bank account had been purged due to identity theft, and she could not get a copy of her bank statement. In addition and without providing any context, she mentions that a lien placed on Murcia's case by Therapy in Motion had been released. Her letter concludes that Murcia "never advised me she was going to file a bar complaint." However, Murcia clearly warned her in the text messages that she would file a grievance if she did not receive the information she needed; "I will go to OBA's."

¶14 On February 2, 2017, Debbie Maddox (Maddox), the OBA Assistant General Counsel, emailed the Respondent requesting a copy of the credit card receipt or statement showing the payment to Therapy in Motion. This was not provided so Maddox sent the Respondent a follow-up letter on March 31, 2017 warning her if she did not provide this information within five days she would upgrade this matter to a full disciplinary investigation.[38] In her response, the Respondent states the credit card payment was made in September 2015 and her account was closed due to identity theft during that period.[39] Additionally, she claims to have contacted Therapy in Motion but they had no record of the payment, and she claims TekCollect did not report the payment to Therapy in Motion. She also claims on numerous occasions she told Murcia there was not enough money from the sale to pay all the bills. She blames a language barrier as the reason for Murcia's misunderstanding and claims she tried to have an interpreter with her when they met but that was not always possible. This point was strongly contested by Murcia. Murcia had always brought either her daughter or her husband to any meeting she had with the Respondent, and they understand and speak English.[40] Her letter also curiously states that when the property was sold to Mr. Stuart he paid with a "money order" which was clearly not the case; it was paid in cash and the Respondent had actually signed the receipt and marked it as paid in cash.[41] Ex. 25.

¶15 On April 14, 2017, Maddox opened this matter for formal investigation.[42] In her May 3, 2017 response, the Respondent provided more detailed information.[43] She claims the sale of the property to Mr. Stuart occurred in September 2015, the same time frame she is claiming she paid Therapy in Motion with a credit card. However, all the evidence in the record, the receipt from the sale, the deeds conveyed, clearly indicate the sale occurred on March 29, 2015.[44] She explains that in 2016 she threatened suit against Therapy in Motion based upon new case law but later realized it was not applicable to Murcia so the lawsuit was not filed. Afterwards, she claims Murcia only wanted "some of her bills paid." The Respondent focused on Therapy in Motion because it was the only provider that had a lien on file. She alleged Therapy in Motion agreed to take $4,600.00 and the Respondent was required to pay this amount with a credit card; she did not have a credit card on her trust account so she deposited the money into her operating account and paid with the operating account's credit card. Following her statement about making this payment she writes "[t]he lien on her case was released." However, the lien she is referring to had nothing to do with any payment made on Murcia's behalf.[45] The lien filed by Therapy in Motion was originally made August 2, 2010.[46] It was later amended on December 12, 2011 and named the Department of Central Services as an insurance company.[47] On December 4, 2012, the lien was released and stated "payment was received by the undersigned [Therapy in Motion]." This lien release occurred over two years before the sale of the property (March 29, 2015). Therefore, it would be impossible for the Respondent to understand that the sale proceeds were somehow responsible for Therapy in Motion releasing its lien. But that is clearly her implication in her response to the Complainant.[48] At the PRT hearing a former employee of Therapy in Motion testified that the lien release was made due to the State informing them that no lien could be placed upon the State.[49] The reason the lien release said payment had been received was due to the use of a standard form and that statement was in error.[50] Representatives from both Therapy in Motion and TekCollect testified that no payments of any kind had ever been received on behalf of Murcia.[51] The representative from TekCollect acknowledged the Respondent's efforts to reduce Murcia's bill, but TekCollect informed her it would not take less than eighty percent of the amount owed.[52] Still no payment was ever made.[53]

¶16 The Respondent further explained to the Complainant that her identity was stolen during August through October of 2015, the period she claims she paid TekCollect with a credit card.[54] She claims her account was closed and was purged from her bank's system. She also claims she advised Murcia of this and then attempted to contact her accountant but found out her accountant had died and there was no way to get these records. When she contacted Therapy in Motion they no longer had Murcia's file in their system. She again claims she informed Murcia numerous times there was not enough money to pay all of her bills and blames the language barrier for Murcia's misunderstanding. She then tells the Complainant that Murcia has not paid any of the attorney fees and costs they agreed to in the contract. However, her contract with Murcia was a contingency fee contract which states "[i]n the event of failure of recovery, the Attorney shall claim no compensation from Client."[55] It is clear the Respondent dismissed the original lawsuit due to the statute of limitations having already run. The record provides no evidence of any new contract being made after the lawsuit was dismissed.

¶17 The Respondent's brief states she voluntarily provided her bank records to the Complainant.[56] However, the Complainant was forced to issue a subpoena duces tecum on February 5, 2018 when they did not receive requested bank account records.[57] The subpoena covered all bank accounts of the Respondent including her IOLTA and operating account as well as personal accounts.[58] The records from the bank covered the period from January 1, 2014 to February 5, 2018.[59] The bank also wrote the OBA investigator explaining the Respondent's law firm business account was "charged off" from March 20, 2015 to March 14, 2016 and is currently active after that period.[60] The letter states the term "charged off" means the account was overdrawn for more than thirty days and was automatically closed. During this period, no activity could occur on that account. However, the Respondent told the Complainant she paid the Therapy in Motion bill with a credit card in September 2015 which was during this period.[61] The letter from the bank to the OBA investigator does not specify if identity theft was involved. Regardless of whichever account she could have paid from, the OBA investigator testified none of her accounts showed a deposit of $4,600.00 or any payments made to cover Murcia's bills.[62]

¶18 At the PRT hearing, the Respondent was questioned about her different explanations as to how Murcia's bills were paid. In one instance she told Murcia she paid by a check on a certain date but then told the Complainant she paid with a credit card on a different date. Her response was that those statements might be interpreted as inconsistencies but they were not anything that would require "that that is not the truth."[63] The assistant general counsel then asked her, "one of these statements, or both, are false, are they not" to which she replied "[t]hey were not false at the time I made them."[64] When asked about her communications to Murcia concerning the supposed July 22, 2016 check payment she responded "I was truthful in what I told her at the time I made the message."[65] The Respondent acknowledged there was no check or credit card payment.[66] Her testimony also reflected she was hoping the OBA could find evidence of a payment in one of her bank records.[67]

¶19 The Trial Panel members also questioned the Respondent about the $4,600.00 she put into her safe and why she did not just pay Murcia when she first met with the OBA. The Respondent testified, "[w]ell, obviously, I mean, there – there was no money in the safe. I mean I don't know what happened to the money during this period. I just don't know."[68] She could not even remember when she first discovered the money was missing.[69] She also testified she did not inform Murcia that the money was no longer in her safe.[70] The record does not reflect she reported the missing money as stolen.

B. Counts II and III. The Sanders and Solis Grievances

¶20 The Respondent was hired to represent the Sanders and Solis families in their actions against the Shawnee Public Schools. The OGTCA was applicable to each case. In both cases Shawnee Public Schools did not respond to the tort claim letters. The petitions were filed on May 3, 2016. However, due to a leap year miscalculation, they were filed one day late.[71] The Respondent testified she had worked on these cases with another attorney, Steven Crow (Crow).[72] In her response to the Complainant she stated Crow was the lead counsel, however, she admitted at the hearing neither attorney was considered the lead counsel and she was equally responsible for whatever happened in those cases.[73] She and Crow shared responsibilities when working on education cases, and both met with the Sanders and Solis families together on the same day.[74] Crow testified that he believed he was the one who miscalculated the date to file the petitions.[75] However, the petitions were both prepared and signed by the Respondent and she was the one who had them filed.[76]

¶21 On July 3, 2017, Shawnee Public Schools filed a motion to dismiss in each case.[77] The grounds for dismissal were clearly specified in the motions and were based on the petitions being filed outside of the statute of limitations. On July 20, 2017, the Respondent signed and filed a dismissal without prejudice in each case.[78] She testified she did not learn the motions were based on a failure to meet the statute of limitations until the bar grievance was filed.[79] She claims she did not read the motions at the time she filed her dismissals; "I don't know what I was doing at the time, but I was too busy to stop and read the pleading."[80] The Respondent's explanation was she and Crow received motions to dismiss in about ninety percent of these education cases and Crow would be the one to review the pleadings then inform her of what to do, e.g., file a dismissal without prejudice because they needed more time to get additional information.[81] She testified that Crow told her to file a dismissal, and she did not question it or ask why.[82] Crow testified he believes he ultimately made the decision to file the dismissals without prejudice.[83]

¶22 After the dismissals were filed, neither attorney notified the Sanders or the Solis families of the dismissal. On September 21, 2017, the Respondent sent Mr. Sanders a letter informing him that she is closing her legal practice and "I leave your case in good hands."[84] The letter does not mention she had filed a dismissal without prejudice in his case. The letter also indicates that she was transferring his file to Crow. The record does not include a similar letter to the Solis family. Both clients testified that the Respondent never notified them of the dismissal of their cases.[85] The Respondent testified that if she had thought the dismissals had ended their cases permanently she would have notified them.[86] She and Crow were also looking at other possible theories of recovery under federal constitutional claims therefore she did not think it was important to provide information of the dismissal.[87] However, she admits that a failure to meet the statute of limitations would have been a critical error to the OGTCA claims.[88] She now believes that she should have notified her clients of the dismissals.[89] Mr. Sanders testified that a few months after he received the letter he decided to retain another attorney rather than proceed with Crow.[90] The new attorney is the one who informed him that his case had been dismissed for failing to meet the statute of limitations.[91] The first time the Solis family heard their case had been dismissed was when they were contacted by the OBA investigator.[92]

IV. The Rule Violations

¶23 The Trial Panel filed its report on June 13, 2019. The report found the Complainant had proven by clear and convincing evidence the Respondent violated Rules 1.3 (Diligence)[93], 1.4 (Communication)[94], 1.15 (Safekeeping Property)[95], 8.4(a) and (c) (Violating Rules of Professional Conduct/Engaging in Conduct Involving Dishonesty, Fraud, Deceit or Misrepresentation)[96] ORPC and Rule 1.3 (Discipline for Acts Contrary to Prescribed Standards of Conduct)[97] RGDP in the Murcia case. It also found the Respondent violated Rules 1.1 (Competence)[98], 1.3 (Diligence), 1.4 (Communication), and 8.4 (a) (Violating Rules of Professional Conduct) ORPC as well as Rule 1.3 (Discipline for Acts Contrary to Prescribed Standards of Conduct) RGDP in both the Sanders and Solis cases.

¶24 In the Murcia case the Respondent argues she did everything she could for Murcia and she communicated with her at all hours of the day without any restrictions. However, it cannot be said she acted diligently on behalf of her client. The Respondent testified she had even closed Murcia's file at one point as if the case was concluded when there were outstanding medical bills left to be paid.[99] For years the bills were left unpaid and Murcia's credit report reflected this fact.[100] She kept stringing Murcia along and never gave her the information she requested. Her communications with Murcia may have been frequent but they were full of misrepresentations.

¶25 For conduct to constitute a Rule 8.4 (c) ORPC violation the misrepresentation must be shown by clear and convincing evidence that the declarant had an underlying motive, i.e., bad or evil intent, for making the statement. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Assn' v. Johnston, 1993 OK 91, ¶16, 863 P.2d 1136. An intent element is required and the OBA must adequately show the attorney had a purpose to deceive. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Besly, 2006 OK 18, ¶43, 136 P.3d 590. Here, the evidence shows a clear purpose as to why the Respondent misrepresented she had paid the providers. The $4,600.00 sale proceeds were no longer in her safe, it just disappeared. She never communicated this fact to Murcia. We find clear and convincing evidence that she not only intentionally deceived her client about the bills being paid but she intended to deceive the Complainant as well by repeatedly telling them at least one provider had been fully paid. The evidence shows no provider had ever been paid and the sale proceeds were never deposited into any bank account. Her motive for the deception is that the money was no longer in the safe. She could not account for what happened to it nor could she even recall when she discovered it was no longer there. Nor did she claim it was stolen.

¶26 It is clear that the Respondent did not safeguard this money properly when she placed it into her safe rather than in her IOLTA account. Rule 1.15 (a) ORPC treats funds separately from other property. It provides that "funds shall be kept in a separate account.... Other property shall be identified as such and appropriately safeguarded." Comment 1 to the rule provides "[a]ll property that is the property of clients ... must be kept separate from the lawyer's business and personal property and, if monies, in one or more trust accounts." The money from the sale of the property was not deposited into any bank account let alone a client trust account.

¶27 The Complainant asserts in its brief that the Respondent's actions constitute misappropriation of Murcia's funds. Although the Trial Panel did not make a specific finding of misappropriation, this Court is not bound by the trial authority's findings or its assessments as to weight or credibility of the evidence. State, ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Raskin, 1982 OK 39, ¶11, 642 P.2d 262. This Court has explained many times the three levels of culpability regarding the mishandling of client funds. The three levels are commingling, simple conversion, and misappropriation. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Combs, 2007 OK 65, ¶13, 175 P.3d 340. Misappropriation is the most serious offense of the three. It is not merely simple conversion, i.e., the use of a client's funds for a purpose other than that for which they are intended, but additionally involves an element of deceit and fraud. Id., ¶¶15-16. It occurs when a lawyer purposefully deprives a client of money through deceit and fraud. Id., ¶16. In State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Mayes, we held an attorney who represented to the Court that he was holding monies intended for two minor children when those funds had actually been spent on him and his secretary constituted misappropriation. 2003 OK 23, ¶¶19-22, 66 P.3d 398. It was clear he committed simple conversion but his own actions of deceit propelled this Court to find he committed misappropriation. Id., ¶22. This was so even though the Complainant did not allege misappropriation nor was there any evidence presented that the client suffered economic harm. Id., ¶¶20-21.

¶28 The $4,600.00 proceeds from the sale of the property were not used for their intended purpose, i.e., to pay Murcia's medical bills. This fact alone constitutes simple conversion. However, the Respondent repeatedly explained to her client and to the Complainant that the money had been used to pay Murcia's medical bills, which was completely false. This was not mere carelessness or forgetfulness as the Respondent would like us to believe. These false statements happened over a period of time in which she could have corrected any errors in her statements. The disappearance of the sale proceeds combined with the Respondents many misrepresentations provide clear and convincing evidence that she purposefully deprived her client of money through deceit and fraud. We find her actions constitute misappropriation.

¶29 We hold the Complainant has proven by clear and convincing evidence the Respondent violated Rules 1.3, 1.4, 1.15, 8.4 (a) and (c), ORPC and Rule 1.3, RGDP.

¶30 Rule 1.1, ORPC, requires a lawyer to "provide competent representation to a client." In both the Sanders and Solis grievances, the Respondent failed to file their lawsuits timely under the OGTCA. This was due to a leap year miscalculation, and she did not check the filing date calculated by Crow prior to filing the petitions. When her office received the motions to dismiss in each case she did not read them to determine the grounds for the motions. She instead just filed a dismissal without prejudice in both cases. She never informed her clients of the motions to dismiss nor of the dismissals without prejudice. Her clients had to find out from other attorneys that their cases were dismissed. She claims she would have told her clients of the dismissals had she known the petitions were actually filed out of time. If she had read the motions to dismiss she would have realized this, however, she testified she was too busy to do that. Her actions show a lack of diligence and failure to communicate with her clients. She did not provide competent representation in either matter.

¶31 We hold the Complainant has proven by clear and convincing evidence the Respondent violated Rules 1.1, 1.3, 1.4, 8.4 (a), ORPC and Rule 1.3, RGDP.

V. DISCIPLINE

¶32 Discipline is imposed to preserve public confidence in the Bar. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Phillips, 2002 OK 86, ¶21, 60 P.3d 1030. In all three cases the Respondent's clients testified to having a negative experience with the legal profession due to the Respondent's conduct.[101] Our goal is not to punish but to gauge an attorney's continued fitness to practice law in order to safeguard the interest of the public, the courts and the legal profession. Id. This Court also administers discipline to deter an attorney from similar future conduct and to act as a restraining vehicle on others who might consider committing similar acts. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Townsend, 2012 OK 44, ¶31, 277 P.3d 1269. Discipline is fashioned to coincide with the discipline imposed upon other attorneys for like acts of professional misconduct. Id. This Court strives to be even-handed and fair in disciplinary matters, yet discipline must be decided on a case-by-case basis taking into account the unique transgressions and mitigating factors. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Mayes, 2003 OK 23, ¶25, 66 P.3d 398.

¶33 In State ex. rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Ferguson, an attorney was suspended from the practice of law for ninety days for conduct that amounted to simple conversion of client funds. 1960 OK 229, 356 P.2d 734. The Bar had recommended a six month suspension, but the Court weighed Ferguson's actions. Ferguson testified he believed the $650.00 was spent by him, but due to his emotional state and inebriation during that period he was not sure how it was spent. Id., ¶3, ¶8. Following a judgment against his client he made restitution by paying the $650.00 and court costs. Id., ¶7. The opinion made no findings of dishonesty and noted his cooperation in answering questions many of which he could have refused to answer. Id., ¶¶ 9, 26. In addition, this Court found he had no previous record or even "hint or breath of trouble or scandal against his name." Id., ¶23.

¶34 In State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Hensley, this Court suspended an attorney for a period of two years for commingling client funds. 1977 OK 23, ¶12, 560 P.2d 567. Following judgment in a wrongful death case, Hensley deposited a draft from an insurance carrier into his trust account, but he used this account for personal and office expenses as well. Id., ¶3. Hensley began withdrawing these funds from his account for personal and office use while lying to his clients that the draft would not be honored because the insurance company was filing an appeal. Id., 4. He did eventually pay his clients the proceeds they were owed. Id., 5. The Court noted Hensley was only being charged with commingling of funds under the 1971 disciplinary rules. Id., ¶¶7-8. There was no discussion about misappropriation even though Hensley clearly lied to his clients in order to delay payment to them. The Court determined it would not follow the trial authority's recommendation to disbar him but instead chose to suspended him for two years. Id., ¶12. The decision was strongly influenced by the fact Hensley, after a twenty-five year practice, had never been disciplined. Id., ¶8.

¶35 A finding that an attorney misappropriated funds, however, mandates the imposition of harsh discipline regardless of exceptional mitigating factors. State ex. rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Mansfield, 2015 OK 22, ¶18, 350 P.3d 108. In Mayes, this Court imposed disbarment as discipline. 2003 OK 23, ¶32. In addition to the fact that the attorney was found to have misappropriated his client's funds, we emphasized his failure to cooperate with the grievance process. Id. We noted the attorney attached misleading documents to his reply to the grievance. Id., ¶22. The Complainant was also forced to subpoena his bank records after he failed to provide the requested documents. Id.

¶36 This Court has held disbarment was warranted in other cases involving misappropriation. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Doris, 1999 OK 94, ¶¶40-43, 991 P.2d 1015 (Disbarring an attorney after finding he committed misappropriation of client funds by repeatedly telling his client he would pay the client but never did); State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Gray, 1997 OK 140, ¶¶30-33, 948 P.2d 1221 (Disbarring an attorney for misappropriating funds of his law firm for his own personal use even though he had an otherwise unblemished career and had suffered family and financial problems).

¶37 The offending conduct in Mayes is similar to that in the present matter. The Respondent repeatedly lied to the Complainant as well as her client concerning the payment of certain medical bills. She made further misrepresentations to the Complainant by referring to the lien release and attaching a copy of the same in her response to the grievance.[102] The record clearly shows this lien release could not possibly have been based on any payment made by the Respondent. These misrepresentations combined with the fact that the Complainant was forced to subpoena the Respondent's bank records show a failure to cooperate in the grievance process.

¶38 In addition to the Respondent's misappropriation of her client's funds, her other misconduct has been found to warrant discipline. In State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Whitebook, an attorney who failed to provide competent representation, failed to act with diligence, failed to keep clients reasonably informed, failed to comply with reasonable requests for information, and failed to charge a client a reasonable fee warranted a suspension of two years and one day. 2010 OK 72, ¶17, 242 P.3d 517. In State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Beasley, an attorney who failed to act with diligence, failed to communicate with clients, failed to refund unearned fees, and failed to provide information to the Bar was suspended for two years and one day. 2006 OK 49, ¶44, 142 P.3d 410.

¶39 The Respondent has offered evidence to mitigate her discipline. She ultimately paid the $4,600.00 to Murcia after the grievance was filed. She was the primary care giver to her ailing father prior to his death during the time she represented Murcia, Sanders and Solis. Her father-in-law also died sometime during this period. She testified to having physical and emotional problems during this period which included back surgery, anxiety and depression. The Trial Panel reviewed these mitigating factors but believed the one year suspension recommended by the Complainant was not enough. It recommended she be suspended for eighteen months.

¶40 We agree with the Trial Panel that the Complainant's recommendation does not provide adequate discipline. However, we disagree with its recommendation. Even considering the Respondent's mitigation evidence as well as the fact that the record is devoid of any previous discipline, the totality of her misconduct is disturbing. It is our difficult duty to withdraw a license to practice law but we shall if necessary to protect the interest of the public and the legal profession as a whole. The record is laden with inconsistent statements and unbelievable explanations. Most disturbing of which is the Respondent's difficulty in discerning the truth. Her testimony that the false statements she made to her client were somehow true at the time she made them is incredulous. A mistaken statement may be made; however, truth is not malleable. Honesty in the performance of a lawyer's professional activities is the foundation upon which his or her license stands. We hold the sum of the Respondent's misconduct warrants disbarment. Accordingly, it is ordered by this Court that the Respondent be disbarred and her name be stricken from the roll of attorneys licensed to practice law in this state.

VI. ASSESSMENT OF COSTS

¶41 The Complainant filed an application to assess costs on June 13, 2019. The total amount assessed was $6,669.19, the majority of which concerned the two transcripts covering 667 pages. The Complainant requests these costs be paid by a certain date. The Respondent objects to the application because: 1) the Trial Panel report did not recommend the payment of costs; and 2) she is unable to pay the costs. Rule 6.13, RGDP provides in pertinent part:

> Within thirty (30) days after the conclusion of the hearing, the Trial Panel shall file with the Clerk of the Supreme Court a written report which shall contain the Trial Panel's findings of fact on all pertinent issues and conclusions of law (including a recommendation as to discipline, if such is found to be indicated, and a recommendation as to whether the costs of the investigation, record and proceedings should be imposed on the respondent). . . .

The Respondent is correct that the Trial Panel Report did not make a recommendation for the Respondent to pay the costs of the proceeding. However, the Trial Panel's recommendations are only advisory to this Court. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Townsend, 2012 OK 44, ¶10, 277 P.3d 1269. Rule 6.15, RGDP provides: "(a) The Supreme Court may approve the Trial Panel's findings of fact or make its own independent findings, impose discipline, dismiss the proceedings or take such other action as it deems appropriate." We deem the payment of costs in this matter to be appropriate. Rule 6.16, RGDP requires a disciplined lawyer to pay the costs of the disciplinary proceeding within 90 days after the Supreme Court's order becomes effective unless the costs are remitted in whole or in part by the Court for good cause shown. The Respondent alleges in her June 20, 2019 objection that she is unable to pay the costs "at this time" and that alone is "good cause to not order her to pay same." The record established the Respondent is employed and her objection provides no evidence to support her claim. The Respondent is ordered to pay the cost of this proceeding in the amount of $6,669.19 within ninety (90) days after this opinion becomes final.

¶1 The respondent's actions warrant discipline. Her actions were clearly wrong and in violation of the Code of Professional Responsibility.

I would follow the recommendation of the PRT of an eighteen month suspension.

¶2 The respondent was licensed in 2003. The matters that brought the respondent into the disciplinary process began in 2012. The respondent was involved in three tort claim actions. Two of the matters involved a failure to timely file actions under the Oklahoma Governmental Tort Claims Act, (OGTCA) 51 O.S. 2011 §151 et seq. The second attorney testified, as noted in the majority opinion, that he believed he miscalculated the erroneous filing dates that caused the matter to be untimely filed. The petitions were prepared and signed by the respondent.

¶3 The third matter, the Murcia complaint, involved the representation of a client in another governmental tort claim after another attorney had failed to timely file a timely claim under OGTCA. In negotiating a settlement with this attorney, respondent received $4,600 in cash for the client, which was not placed in her client trust account, but was placed in her office safe and not accounted for. Respondent paid Murcia years later and only after the complaint was filed. Nevertheless, she did not acknowledge her responsibility for the failure to pay the complainant, and was dishonest during the investigation.

¶4 This court must impose discipline in a manner consistent with that imposed on other attorneys whose actions are similar to avoid disparate treatment.[1] Mitigating circumstances are also considered in assessing the appropriate discipline.[2] There are mitigating circumstances in the third and most extensive complaint, the Murcia complaint. The respondent moved her office three times, had major back surgery, was suffering from depression, and lost family members during the tenure of both the Murcia matter and during the investigation by the Bar of the complaints. She did not take a fee for her work in obtaining money from the original counsel in the matter who failed to timely file the original case. The monies received were in cash, and the respondent placed the monies in her office safe for safekeeping. There is no evidence of the conversion of funds by Miller. In the other two matters, there was another attorney involved who was involved in the legal work, with respondent involved in the administrative work of the cases. Avenues of legal redress remain for the complainants in these matters.

¶5 The PRT recommended an eighteen month suspension. In similar matters, attorney falsehoods have resulted in the imposition of disparate levels of discipline, including disbarment. The Court disbarred the respondent in State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Mayes, 2003 OK 23, ¶ 1, 66 P.3d 398. Mayes had complaints filed against him alleging two counts of professional misconduct involving the mishandling and misappropriation of settlement funds belonging to minors and the failure to cooperate in the grievance process. The Court found that there was clear evidence of client fund misappropriation. The respondent was also a "multiple offender." Shortly before his disbarment proceeding, this Court had suspended him for six months. In that instance, for his failure to supervise his non-lawyer office manager. He had, because of this failure, unwittingly received, some of a client's personal injury settlement proceeds, which the office manager had converted or commingled. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Mayes, 1999 OK 9, 977 P.2d 1073, as corrected (Feb. 23, 1999).

¶6 We disbarred the respondent in State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Moss, 1983 OK 104. 682 P.2d 205. There, the attorney asked a client to make a false affidavit and paid her to make an affidavit. Then, he submitted the false affidavit to the Bar Association and lied about the falsity of the affidavit.

¶7 Conversion of the funds of two clients for personal use, including the monies for a tax payment and untrue statements that he had made the tax payment also resulted in the attorney's disbarment in State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Raskin, 1982 OK 39, 642 P.2d 262, 264.

¶8 An attorney who received a second disciplinary complaint during the pendency of the first complaint, involving neglect of cases, misrepresentations to clients and misuse of client funds , submitted his resignation from the bar. State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Skof, 1989 OK 58, 772 P.2d 394. The attorney who was the subject of State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Hensley, 1983 OK 32, 661 P.2d 527, was disbarred, in part, for misrepresentations made to the court directly and in pleadings.

¶9 However, disbarment appears to be the exception rather than the rule in cases similar to this matter. In State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Dobbs, 2004 OK 46, 94 P.3d 31, the disciplined attorney had a history of falsehoods and concealments in responses to depositions, in the representation of facts to the Oklahoma Corporation Commission, and in matters before the Oklahoma Bar Association. He received a two year and one day suspension.

¶10 In State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Northrop, 1987 OK 96, ¶¶ 1-2, 746 P.2d 673, the respondent made bad faith representations to a tribunal and to opposing counsel with the intent to circumvent a settlement agreement. He was suspended for two years.

¶11 In State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Askins, 1993 OK 78, 882 P.2d 1054, the attorney made an "affirmative misrepresentation" to the court and filed misleading documents with the court. She received a two year suspension.

¶12 In State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Peveto, 1980 OK 182, 620 P.2d 392, an attorney found guilty of neglecting clients' affairs and knowingly making false statements to clients and to the courts received a one year suspension from the practice of law.

¶13 In State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Farrant, 1994 OK 13, ¶1, 867 P.2d 1279, the attorney converted client funds and lied to the Oklahoma Bar Association. He received a one-year suspension followed by a probationary period of one year accompanied by weekly attendance at AA meetings and monthly sessions with a professional counselor.

¶14 In State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Brown, 1989 OK 75, ¶10, 773 P.2d 751, the attorney falsely endorsed a check; failed to promptly notify his client of the receipt of his funds; mislead his client concerning the distribution of the funds; and lied under oath during a deposition. He received a six month suspension.

¶15 In State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Johnston, 1993 OK 91, 863 P.2d 1136, an attorney who commingled and converted funds, made a false statement to the court, exhibited professional incompetence, and both failed to act promptly while representing his clients, and failed to communicate with clients received a four month suspension from the practice of law.

¶16 In State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Ferguson, 1960 OK 229, 356 P.2d 734, 738, the subject of the disciplinary action was an attorney who became drunk and somehow lost the money his client gave him to settle an action against the client. The attorney also failed to notify the client that the case had been set for trial and that, as a result, there was a judgment against him. He was suspended for ninety days; the Court having noted that the attorney was having marital difficulty, and mislaid the money while drunk. The then disciplinary arm of the Oklahoma Bar Association had recommended to the Court a suspension of six months.

¶17 In State ex rel. Oklahoma Bar Ass'n v. Layton, 2014 OK 21, ¶¶ 0 - 1, 324 P.3d 1244,1245, the complainant charged the respondent with one count of professional misconduct associated with her prosecution of three men in a rape trial. The Bar Association alleged that the respondent: 1) neglected to disclose to the court and opposing counsel that her witness was going to testify inconsistently with his previous police statement; and 2) falsely denied that she had spoken to the witness before and/or during the trial. The Bar Association sought the some term of suspension and the payment of costs. The Professional Responsibility Tribunal (PRT) recommended a public censure. This court imposed no discipline.

CONCLUSION

¶18 The Court's responsibility in an attorney discipline proceeding is not to punish, but to inquire into and gauge a lawyer's continued fitness to practice law, with a view to safeguarding the interest of the public, the courts, and the legal profession. Discipline is imposed to maintain these goals, rather than as punishment for the lawyer's misconduct.[3] Every disciplinary proceeding presents unique issues. However, based on the history of at least somewhat comparable matters, the discipline imposed by the majority appears erratic and inconsistent.

IN RE THE MARRIAGE OF TEAGUE: SUSAN TEAGUE, Petitioner/Appellee, vs. LESLEY TEAGUE, Respondent/Appellant.

Case No. 117,101. December 6, 2019

APPEAL FROM THE DISTRICT COURT OF ROGERS COUNTY, OKLAHOMA

HONORABLE DAVID SMITH, JUDGE

AFFIRMED IN PART, REVERSED IN PART AND REMANDED WITH INSTRUCTIONS

Bradley A. Grundy, Angela L. Smoot, CONNER & WINTERS, LLP, Tulsa, Oklahoma, and

Juliana Reimer, Julie Henson, Owasso, Oklahoma, for Petitioner/Appellee,

W. Allen Vaughn, Tulsa, Okahoma, for Respondent/Appellant.

Bay Mitchell, Presiding Judge:

¶1 Respondent/Appellant Lesley Teague (Father) appeals from the trial court's order modifying child support for his disabled adult child. We find 43 O.S. 2011 §118I(A)(3), providing that an order modifying child support shall be effective upon the date the motion to modify was filed, applies to an order modifying support for a disabled adult child pursuant to 43 O.S. 2011 §112.1A. The trial court erred as a matter of law by using a different date. That part of the order is reversed and remanded with instructions to make the order effective upon the date Father filed his motion and adjust the amount of the credit to Father. We find the amount of support ordered is not clearly against the weight of the evidence so as to constitute an abuse of discretion. That part of the order is affirmed.

¶2 Father and Petitioner/Appellee Susan Teague (Mother) were married December 31, 1989. Mother filed a petition for dissolution of marriage November 18, 2011. The parties had two children during the marriage, V.C.T. and C.A.T. At the time of the divorce, V.C.T. was a minor child and C.A.T., born September 6, 1990, was a disabled adult child. The trial court entered a Decree of Dissolution of Marriage March 28, 2013. The Decree ordered Father to pay adult child support for C.A.T., who lived with Mother. On September 23, 2015, the trial court modified child support for C.A.T. from $364.36 per month to $813.70 per month and ordered Father to pay the arrearage in the amount of $16,314.71 plus interest. That order was not appealed.

¶3 On December 21, 2015, Father filed a Combined Motion to Terminate Child Support and Motion for Developmental Assessment of the Parties' Adult Child. Father alleged that C.A.T. was capable of being independent and self-supportive. While the motion to terminate support was still pending, Father filed a Motion to Modify Child Support January 19, 2016. Father asserted that since the September 23, 2015 support order, the factors upon which child support was computed had materially and significantly changed. Father alleged that his wages had decreased and Mother's wages had increased. The trial court ordered a psychoeducational evaluation by Dr. Jennifer Benton. Dr. Benton evaluated C.A.T. July 19, 2016. She diagnosed C.A.T. with mild intellectual disability and anxiety disorder, found her IQ was 65, and opined that she will continue to need supervision and support.

¶4 On August 22, 2016, Father filed an Amended Motion to Modify Child Support and Request for Extraordinary Relief based on the change in wages. He alleged that he lost his job in June 2015 and earns less at his new job. Father also argues that in addition to the $813.70 per month in child support for C.A.T., he has been ordered to pay past due child support at 10% interest, has been found guilty of indirect contempt, and ordered to pay Mother's attorney fees related to the contempt citation. These liabilities make his total monthly payment to Mother $1,181.57. Father also asserts that he is paying Mother $403.00 per month pursuant to a Chapter 13 bankruptcy proceeding and he has incurred additional medical expenses from having his gall bladder removed. Father claims that based on his current household budget he cannot make these payments and asks the trial court to reduce the amounts.[1] On September 23, 2016, Father filed a motion to dismiss his Motion to Terminate Child Support, which was filed December 21, 2015. The trial court granted the motion to dismiss September 27, 2016.

¶5 The trial on Father's Amended Motion to Modify Child Support was held October 28, 2016, June 30, 2017, August 15, 2017, and September 28, 2017. The trial court found there has been a permanent, material and substantial change of condition in Father's income and reduced his support obligation from $813.70 per month to $387.31 per month. The trial court found this amount was "for the minimum needs directly related to the disabled adult child." The trial court determined the effective date of the modified amount of child support was January 15, 2017 and ordered Father a credit in the amount of $426.39 per month from January 2017 through May 2018. Father appeals.[2]

¶6 Father raises two issues on appeal.[3] First, he argues the order modifying child support should have been effective upon the date he filed his Motion to Modify Child Support. Second, he argues Mother failed to prove C.A.T.'s mental or physical disability required 24-hour personal supervision or substantial care.

¶7 Father's first proposition of error raises an issue of statutory construction. Statutory construction presents a question of law which we review de novo. See Fanning v. Brown, 2004 OK 7, ¶8, 85 P.3d 841. We have plenary, independent and nondeferential authority to determine whether the trial court erred in its legal rulings. Id.

¶8 Father argues 43 O.S. §118I(A)(3) applies to the modification of support for a disabled adult child. Section 118I concerns the modification of support orders for minor children. The statute provides, in pertinent part, that "[a]n order of modification shall be effective upon the date the motion to modify was filed, unless the parties agree to the contrary or the court makes a specific finding of fact that the material change of circumstance did not occur until a later date." 43 O.S. 2011 §118I(A)(3). Father filed his Motion to Modify Child Support January 19, 2016. Without making a specific finding of fact that the material change of circumstances did not occur until a later date, the trial court ordered that child support be modified beginning January 15, 2017. Father argues the trial court erred by not using the filing date – January 19, 2016 – as the effective date. Relying on In re Marriage of Morgan, 2019 OK CIV APP 5, 438 P.3d 837, Mother argues an order modifying child support does not relate back to the date of filing when the order is for support of a disabled adult child.[4]

¶9 The fundamental purpose of statutory construction is to determine and give effect to the intent of the Legislature. See Humphries v. Lewis, 2003 OK 12, ¶7, 67 P.3d 333. If the language is clear and unambiguous, this Court must apply the plain meaning. Id. However, when the legislative intent cannot be determined from the statutory language due to ambiguity or conflict, rules of statutory construction should be employed. See Keating v. Edmondson, 2001 OK 110, ¶8, 37 P.3d 882.

¶10 Title 43, §112.1A does not expressly adopt §118I(A)(3) or otherwise provide when an order modifying disabled adult child support is effective. However, subsection (F) provides that "[a]n order provided by this section . . . may be modified or enforced in the same manner as any other order provided by this title." 43 O.S. §112.1A(F) (emphasis added). This language is unambiguous. We find the plain and ordinary meaning of subsection (F) is that a disabled adult child support order may be modified in the same manner as orders modifying child support for minor children, which includes 43 O.S. §118I(A)(3). Reading §112.1A(F) and §118I(A)(3) together does not conflict with any other provisions, as §112.1A is silent as to the effective date of an order modifying disabled adult child support. Like an order modifying support for a minor child, an order modifying support for a disabled adult child shall be effective upon the date the motion to modify was filed, unless the parties agree to the contrary or the court makes a specific finding of fact that the material change of circumstance did not occur until a later date. See 43 O.S. §118I(A)(3).

¶11 In Morgan, the Court of Civil Appeals touched on this issue. See Morgan, 2019 OK CIV APP 5, ¶¶47-50. Morgan was also a post-divorce proceeding. However, the procedural history is slightly different. The parties were divorced when the disabled child was a minor, and the father was ordered to pay child support. Id. ¶2. Prior to the disabled child's eighteenth birthday, the mother filed a motion for adult child support. Id. ¶5. The trial court granted the motion and ordered child support for the disabled adult child. Id. ¶25. Additionally, the trial court found that because the father had stopped paying any support after the child turned eighteen years old, he owed past due child support since that time. Id. One of the issues Father raised on appeal was whether the trial court could "retroactively" establish support and award the mother an arrearage from the date he stopped paying support (the child's eighteenth birthday). Id. ¶47. The appellate court determined that because the Legislature did not explicitly extend 43 O.S. §118I(A)(3) to 43 O.S. §112.1A, the statute providing for support of disabled adult children, the trial court erred by entering a judgment for past due support. See id. ¶¶49-50.

¶12 We acknowledge that another Division of this Court has suggested that an order modifying support for a disabled adult child is not effective upon the date the motion to modify was filed. See id. ¶¶47-50. However, opinions ordered for publication by the Court of Civil Appeals only have persuasive effect. See Rule 1.200(d)(2), Okla. Sup. Ct. Rules, 12 O.S. 2011, ch. 15, app. 1. We are unpersuaded by the analysis construing 43 O.S. §112.1A in Morgan and conclude that §118I(A)(3) applies to orders modifying support for an adult disabled child under §112.1A. In reaching the opposite conclusion, the Morgan court did not address the meaning of subsection (F) of §112.1A.[5]

¶13 Father filed his Motion to Modify Child Support January 19, 2016. The trial court erred as a matter of law by making the modification order effective January 15, 2017. We reverse that part of the order and remand with instructions for the trial court to modify paragraph 3 of the order to provide that Father shall pay $387.31 per month beginning February 15, 2016 (the date the next payment was due after he filed his motion to modify) and to modify paragraph 5 to give Father a credit in the amount of $426.39 per month from February 2016 to May 2018.

¶14 Father's second proposition of error is that Mother "failed to prove that the adult child had sufficient mental or physical disability needs which required 24 hour personal supervision or substantial care." This actually suggests two errors: (1) the trial court erred by finding C.A.T. is eligible for any support because she does not require substantial care and personal supervision because of her disability and she is capable of self-support, see 43 O.S. §112.1A(B)(1); and (2) the trial court erred by ordering support in the amount of $387.31 per month, because Mother failed to show C.A.T.'s living expenses are "directly related to [her] mental or physical disability and the substantial care and personal supervision directly required by or related to that disability," 43 O.S. §112.1A(E)(1).

¶15 We review the trial court's modification of support for a disabled adult child for an abuse of discretion. See Gregory v. Gregory, 2011 OK CIV APP 89, ¶4, 259 P.3d 914. Child support proceedings are matters of equitable cognizance. See Thrash v. Thrash, 1991 OK 32, ¶12, 809 P.2d 665, 668. The appellate court reviews the entire record, weighs the evidence and will affirm a trial court's judgment relating to child support where it is just and equitable. Id. The appellate court will not disturb the trial court's determination as to the modification of child support unless the decision is clearly against the weight of the evidence so as to constitute an abuse of discretion. See Williamson v. Williamson, 2005 OK 6, ¶5, 107 P.3d 589.

¶16 Section 112.1A(B)(1) provides that the trial court may order support for a disabled adult child if it finds the child "requires substantial care and personal supervision because of a mental or physical disability and will not be capable of self-support" and the disability exists on or before the child's eighteenth birthday. 43 O.S. §112.1A(B)(1). This is the threshold question to determine if an adult child is eligible for support. After finding the adult child satisfies the requirements in subsection (B)(1), the trial court then determines the amount of support by considering the factors set forth in subsection (E). See 43 O.S. §112.1A(E); Morgan, 2019 OK CIV APP 5, ¶¶39-46; see also Gregory, 2011 OK CIV APP 89, ¶10. Section 112.1A(E) provides:

> E. In determining the amount of support to be paid after a child's eighteenth birthday, the specific terms and conditions of that support, and the rights and duties of both parents with respect to the support of the child, the court shall determine and give special consideration to:
> 1. Any existing or future needs of the adult child directly related to the adult child's mental or physical disability and the substantial care and personal supervision directly required by or related to that disability;
> 2. Whether the parent pays for or will pay for the care or supervision of the adult child or provides or will provide substantial care or personal supervision of the adult child;

3. The financial resources available to both parents for the support, care, and supervision of the adult child; and

4. Any other financial resources or other resources or programs available for the support, care, and supervision of the adult child.

43 O.S. 2011 §112.1A(E).

¶17 The trial court determined C.A.T. was a disabled adult child in need of some support, as defined by 43 O.S. §112.1A(B)(1), and ordered Father to pay support in the Decree of Dissolution of Marriage filed March 28, 2013 and the Joint Order Granting in Part and Denying in Part the Petitioner's Motion to Reconsider/Motion for New Trial and Judgment Regarding Child Support filed September 23, 2015. Father did not appeal those decisions. Father first challenged C.A.T.'s status as a disabled adult child in his Motion to Terminate Child Support and Motion for Developmental Assessment of the Parties' Adult Child filed December 15, 2015. He argued C.A.T. was capable of independence and self-support. However, on September 23, 2016, Father filed a motion to dismiss his motion to terminate support. In the motion to dismiss, Father asserted that the findings in the pyschoeducational evaluation are findings which may require the adult child to receive some type of child support pursuant to 43 O.S. §112.1A. The trial court granted Father's motion to dismiss September 27, 2016. The case proceeded to trial on Father's Amended Motion to Modify Support only. Several times throughout these proceedings and during trial, Father admitted C.A.T. is disabled and in need of some support. Father's counsel confirmed he had withdrawn his motion to terminate support challenging whether C.A.T. is a disabled adult child for purposes of subsection (B)(1). Mother argues and we agree Father cannot challenge C.A.T.'s status as a disabled adult child and whether she is eligible for any support based on the criteria in §112.1A(B)(1) for the first time on appeal. As a result, our review is limited to the trial court's decision to order support in the amount of $387.31 per month.

¶18 Father's Amended Motion to Modify identified his decrease in wages and Mother's increase in wages as the changed circumstances permitting the modification of child support.[6] The trial court found there was a change in Father's income and, as a result, reduced his support obligation by $426.39 per month. The trial court ordered Father to pay $387.31 per month "as disabled adult child support for [Father's] contribution for the minimum needs directly related to the disabled adult child." On appeal, Father briefly argues that he does not have the financial resources to pay child support, but he does not cite to evidence in the record on appeal. Father does not point to any evidence that supports a lesser amount of support nor does he identify the amount of support the trial court should have ordered. Father's arguments on appeal focus on to what extent C.A.T. can support herself and whether her living expenses are directly related to her disability.

¶19 Contrary to Father's assertion, the amount of support is not determined solely by whether the disabled adult child needs 24 hour personal supervision and substantial care. The "substantial care and personal supervision directly required by or related to [C.A.T.'s] disability" and whether Mother pays for or provides such care and supervision are just some of the factors the trial court is to give special consideration. See 43 O.S. §112.1A(E)(1)-(2). The trial court is to also consider any of C.A.T.'s existing or future needs directly related to her disability, the financial resources of both parents for her support, care, and supervision, and other financial resources or programs available. See id. §112.1A(E)(1)-(4).

¶20 There is evidence that C.A.T. needs some supervision. Due to her disability, C.A.T. cannot live independently and cannot meet basic needs, such as housing, transportation, food, clothing, and health care without financial support from her parents. These living expenses are directly related to C.A.T.'s disability. C.A.T. lives with Mother. Mother provides the other necessities, as well as non-essentials such as entertainment and family vacations. Mother put on evidence that C.A.T.'s average monthly living expenses are $2,068. C.A.T. receives $375 per month in SSDI benefits. She also has a job earning $300-325 per month for nine months out of the year. Father complains that the $2,068 in average monthly living expenses includes one-fourth of Mother's own household expenses (mortgage, utilities, etc.). He also disagrees with the inclusion of travel ($85) and entertainment ($200). However, Father's arguments are not well-developed and he has failed to show this Court how ordering him to pay child support in the amount of $387.31 per month is clearly against the weight of the evidence so as to constitute an abuse of discretion.

¶21 AFFIRMED IN PART, REVERSED IN PART AND REMANDED WITH INSTRUCTIONS.

BELL, J., and SWINTON, J., concur.

Bay Mitchell, Presiding Judge:

1. Only modification of the amount of support for C.A.T. is an issue in this appeal.

2. Mother filed a counter-appeal which was dismissed as untimely by order of the Supreme Court of Oklahoma September 17, 2018.

3. Additionally, in his brief in chief, Father argues he is entitled to attorney fees and costs for both the trial court proceedings and the appeal. The record on appeal does not indicate Father sought attorney fees in the trial court or that he has appealed an order denying such request. Therefore, we will not review whether he is entitled to fees for the trial court proceedings. Pursuant to Okla. Sup. Ct. Rule 1.14, Father's request for appeal-related attorneys fees and costs must be made by a separately filed and labeled motion in the appellate court prior to issuance of mandate.

4. Mandate issued in Morgan after Father filed his brief in chief.

5. The Morgan court emphasized that the Legislature expressly provided that 43 O.S. §115, which addresses income assignments, applied to modification of disabled adult child support under 43 O.S. §112.1A(D)(3) but did not make a similar arrangement for 43 O.S. §118I(A)(3). See In re Marriage of Morgan, 2019 OK CIV APP 5, ¶50, 438 P.3d 837. Section 112.1A(D)(3) provides: "If there is a court of continuing, exclusive jurisdiction, an action under this section may be filed as a suit for modification pursuant to Section 115 of this title." Section 115 deals with income assignments in child support orders. In Morgan, the mother suggested the Legislature made a mistake and argued "it is possible that subsection 112.1A(D)(3) should refer to 43 O.S. §118I, regarding modification of child support orders, instead of §115." 2019 OK CIV APP 5, ¶48. The Morgan court noted it cannot speculate as to what the Legislature meant to do. See id. ¶50.

We acknowledge that §112.1A(D)(3), as written, does not make much sense. A suit for modification is filed pursuant to §118I, not §115. However, this observation does not alter our decision, because our analysis is based on the plain and ordinary meaning of §112.1A(F), rather than §112.1A(D)(3). Section 112.1A(D)(3) does not address the effective date of an order modifying adult disabled child support and is irrelevant hereto.

6. "Child support orders may be modified upon a material change in circumstances which includes, but is not limited to, an increase or decrease in the needs of the child, an increase or decrease in the income of the parents, … or when one of the children in the support order … ceases to be entitled to support pursuant to the support order. The court shall apply the principles of equity in modifying any child support order due to changes in the circumstances of either party as it relates to the best interests of the children." 43 O.S. §118I(A)(1). Father's motion was not based on a decrease in C.A.T.'s needs.

COURT OF CIVIL APPEALS
(Division No. 2)
Monday, January 6, 2020

117,839 — Ryan McCulloh, an individual, Plaintiff/Appellant, vs. Michelle Brown, an individual; Carrie Short, an individual; In-Focus Health, Inc., an Oklahoma Professional Corporation (suspended); David Paul Jubelirer, M.D., an individual; and Rebound Mental Health, LLC, an Oklahoma Limited Liability Company, Defendants/Appellees. Appeal from an Order of the District Court of Tulsa County, Hon. William D. LaFortune, Trial Judge. Ryan McCulloh (Appellant) appeals the decision of the district court that Appellees Michelle Brown and Carrie Short (Brown and Short) had statutory immunity against Appellant's claims that he was harmed by their incorrect reporting of suspected child abuse pursuant to 10A O.S. Supp. 2015 § 1-2-101 and 10A O.S.2011 § 1-2-104. We find no indication that extending § 1-2-104 immunity to employers who are subject to respondeat superior claims arising from an employee's immunized reporting would obstruct the purpose of § 1-2-104. The opposite is indicated. We therefore find that the statutory grant of immunity to Brown and Short disposes of the respondeat superior claims against the Other Defendants. The judgment of the district court is affirmed. AFFIRMED. Opinion from the Court of Civil Appeals, Division II, by Thornbrugh, J.; Reif, S.J. (sitting by designation), and Fischer, P.J., concur.

117,123 — In re the Marriage of: Linda Jauregui, Petitioner/Appellee, vs. Gabriel Jauregui, Respondent/Appellant. Appeal from an Order of the District Court of McClain County, Hon. Charles N. Gray, Trial Judge. Gabriel Jauregui (Husband) appeals certain aspects of the district court's property division in this divorce case between Husband and Wife, Linda Jauregui. We find the actions of the trial court to be within its discretion, and therefore affirm its decisions. AFFIRMED. Opinion from the Court of Civil Appeals, Division II, by Thornbrugh, J.; Reif, S.J. (sitting by designation), and Fischer, P.J., concur.

David; Lee Dianne David; John Doe, as Occupant of the Premises; and Jane Doe, as Occupant of the Premises, Defendants/Appellees. Defendants/Appellants Augustine C. David and Lee Dianne David (Borrowers) appeal from an order denying their motion to dismiss, motion to vacate, and motion to supplement in a foreclosure action filed by Plaintiff/Appellee Bank of America (Appellee). Borrowers argue that Appellee did not have standing to bring the action against them, that Appellee was required to establish acceleration before seeking relief in court, that Appellee failed to comply with federal regulations, and that Appellee's affidavit was insufficient to establish its entitlement to summary judgment. We AFFIRM. Opinion by Swinton, V.C.J.; Mitchell, P.J., and Buettner, J. (sitting by designation), concur.

117,336 — In re the Marriage of: Shabnam Norasimilani, Petitioner/Appellee, v. Latif Samadi, Respondent/Appellant. Appeal from the District Court of Cleveland County, Hon. Jeff Virgin, Trial Judge. In this dissolution of marriage proceeding, Latif Samadi (Husband) appeals from the trial court's final decree claiming procedural errors, denial of due process, and an inequitable property division re-quiring reversal of the decree. Shabnam Norasimilani (Wife) counter-appeals that part of the decree forbidding the minor child from leaving the United States absent mutual agreement of the parties and appeals the denial of her re-quest for attorney fees. Based upon our review of the record and the applicable law, we conclude the trial court did not commit error in denying Husband's motion to dismiss the dissolution proceedings and did not abuse its discretion in dividing the marital estate. We further conclude Husband's due process rights were not denied in these proceedings. As to Wife's counter-appeal, we conclude the trial court abused its discretion in requiring Husband's consent to allow the minor child to leave the United States, but did not abuse its discretion in denying Wife's request for attorney fees. Accordingly, we affirm in part and reverse in part. AFFIRMED IN PART AND REVERSED IN PART. Opinion from Court of Civil Appeals, Division IV, by Barnes, P.J.; Wiseman, V.C.J., concurs, and Rapp, J., concurs in part and dissents in part.

117,315 — In the Matter of the Estate of Jerry Daniel Poe, Deceased: Jenifer Poe, Appellant, vs. Alice J. Griffith Poe, Personal Representative of the Estate of Jerry Daniel Poe, Deceased, Appellee. Appeal from an order of the District Court of Tulsa County, Hon. Kurt G. Glassco, Trial Judge, finding that the weight of the evidence showed Decedent's daughter, Jenifer Poe, "concealed, embezzled, smuggled, conveyed away, or disposed of monies of the Decedent" in the sum of $208,000. Alice J. Poe, the surviving spouse of Decedent, Jerry Daniel Poe, is the personal administrator of his estate. Alice filed a verified motion alleging that while she and Decedent jointly operated a bar, they "collected a considerable amount of cash" and that "Decedent decided to separate the cash for safety and have his daughter, Jenifer Poe, keep a portion [of] jointly acquired cash in the sum of $208,000.00 in safe keeping." Alice further claimed, "After making the delivery of the cash to Jenifer Poe, Decedent carefully noted the sum held with her as a part of his assets in his books and records" and Jenifer still holds the $208,000 which she has failed and refused to return, although Decedent had asked her to do so. Title 58 O.S.2011 § 293 provides authority for the probate court to require Jenifer to appear before the court and be questioned as to whether she had estate property. Section 293, however, only addresses part of the procedure. Section 294 allows the trial court to order disclosure and "[t]he order for such disclosure made upon such examination is prima facie evidence of the right of such administrator to such property in any action brought for the recovery thereof." The probate court's only permissible action pursuant to the statute was limited to making "an order requiring [Jenifer] to disclose [her] knowledge thereof to the executor or administrator." Alice could then use the order as prima facie evidence in a separate action to recover the money and Jenifer could present evidence to rebut that prima facie showing to prove she did not conceal, embezzle, smuggle, convey away, or dispose of Decedent's money. We conclude it was error as a matter of law for the trial court to exceed the procedure set out in §§ 293-294. Section 294 circumscribes the trial court's ability to act by limiting it to requiring Jenifer to disclose her knowledge of the matter to Alice. Alice could then use that order of disclosure as prima facie evidence of her right to the property in a separate action, giving Jenifer the opportunity to defend against that claim. The trial court's order requires reversal and remand for further proceedings in conformity with this Opinion. REVERSED AND REMANDED FOR FURTHER PROCEEDINGS. Opinion from the Court of Civil Appeals, Division IV, by Wiseman, V.C.J.; Barnes, P.J., and Rapp, J., concur.

117,850 — Donald Williams, Petitioner, vs. Carlisle Foodservice Inc., New Hampshire Insurance Co., and The Workers' Compensation Commission, Respondents. Proceeding to review an order of the Workers' Compensation Commission En Banc, Hon. T. Shane Curtin, Administrative Law Judge, affirming the ALJ's decision denying Claimant's claim for compensation. The ALJ concluded Claimant was not credible when he testified he was symptom-free from a previous injury, for which he never received the recommended surgery when the incident occurred in September 2017. With the evidence and its inherent inconsistencies, we will not substitute our judgment as to Claimant's credibility for the ALJ's on the issue of whether Claimant was symptom-free. We reject Claimant's assertion that the ALJ's decision on this question was against the clear weight of the evidence. We will not address the issue of the failure to appoint an independent medical examiner because Claimant waived this issue by failing to assert it before the WCC en banc. We sustain the order of the Workers' Compensation Commission en banc. SUSTAINED. Opinion from the Court of Civil Appeals, Division IV, by Wiseman, V.C.J.; Barnes, P.J., and Rapp, J., concur.

116,998 — Creditors Recovery Corporation, Plaintiff, v. Pamela Conley, Defendant/Third-Party Plaintiff/Appellant v. Bundren Law Firm, P.C., Third-Party Defendant/Appellee. Appeal from an Order of the District Court of Tulsa County, Hon. Kirsten Pace, Trial Judge. The defendant and third-party plaintiff, Pamela Conley (Conley), appeals the Order granting summary judgment to the third-party defendant, Bundren Law Firm, P.C. (Bundren). Conley filed a third-party petition against Bundren asserting several theories of recovery. All of these theories are predicated upon the erroneous assumption that the May 14, 2015 Agreement also included the Hourly Fee Agreement, thereby making the CRC lawsuit wrongful. Bundren moved for summary judgment and demonstrated that at least one critical element of each claim had no factual support. One such element, common to all claims, is the absence of damages. In addition to other shortcomings, Conley failed to articulate any damages for any of her theories of recovery. The trial court did not err by granting summary judgment. AFFIRMED. Opinion from Court of Civil Appeals, Division IV, by Rapp, J.; Barnes, P.J., and Wiseman, V.C.J., concur.
