

The job of the Army is to fight and protect Americans. The Army was started to fight Great Britain for our country's independence. It is because of the Army and military that we can live free. The Army helps people when natural disasters happen. Last year the Army helped with hurricane rescues. Now the Army is helping where the wildfires are.

We remember those who served in the Army on Veterans Day. Special parades also help honor those who served in the Army. I am proud to celebrate the Army and it's veterans by shaking their hand and thanking them for their service.
