

Hi my name is Rishika Kaipat and I live in Stillwater, Oklahoma. I love helping others. I volunteer with Mya's promise to support kids who need extra help. In May, I joined a lemonade stand contest in my town. I worked hard to sell lemonade and gave all the money I earned to Mya's promise. It made me very happy to help other kids! I enjoy learning about American history and visiting places that teach me about the past. This inspires me to use my rights and freedoms to make a difference in my community.

One way I can is by voting when I grow up. Voting lets us choose leaders who care about important things, like helping families and kids. Right now, I remind my family and friends to vote because it's a good way to make our voices heard.

I also like working with others to solve problems. The lemonade stand was a fun way to raise money for a good cause. In the future, I can plan more events like this to help my Community.

Most of all, I believe in being kind and respectful to everyone. Helping others feel included and happy is one of the best ways to make a difference.

I will keep helping my community, learning about history and finding ways to use my rights and freedoms to do good things. I know that even small actions, like selling lemonade or volunteering, can make a big difference, and I am excited to do more!
